Yanks Hit Out From Bridgehead

Allied Planes Support Reds

Break-Through Expected On Soviets' Berlin Front

SITE OF CROSSING—This is the town of Remagen, Germany, where U.S. armored patrols were operating when they made their sudden dash across the Rhine to establish the bridgehead into which thousands of troops are pouring.

VITAL BRIDGE TAKEN—This is the bridge at Remagen which the patrols seized before the retreating Germans could demolish it. Across it now is streaming a vast army of men and armor to battle the Nazis east of the Rhine.

LONDON, March 12.—(Reuters) — Capture of Kuestrin on the Oder river was announced tonight in a second order of the day from Moscow.

By ROBERT MUSEL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, March 12.—(BUP)—A force of 650 American bombers today dropped a heavy bomb load on Swinemuende, strategic Baltic port 35 miles north of Stettin and less than 20 miles ahead of the Red Army.

As the Eighth Air Force struck in close support of the Russian forces, a Moscow dispatch said a decisive break-through on the Berlin front was expected soon.

The American planes swarmed over the area of Swinemuende, key to the Baltic entrance to Stettin Bay, and gave some of the closest support yet given the Red Army by Allied bombers from the west. Military and naval installations at Swinemuende were the targets.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky tightened his siege are on the Danzig-Gdynia area by capturing three outlying towns. They were the big rail junction of Tczew (Dirschau) 18 miles south of Danzig; Neustadt, 14 miles northwest of Danzig, and Puck (Puzig), on the coast 27 miles north of Danzig.

An Editorial

Looking Backward

Just ten years ago, the then Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was telling the young men and women of Canada to tighten their belts as this country was on the verge of bankruptcy. Work camps were paying our young men 20 cents a day to keep them from riding the rods.

The Alberta Government was actually broke and could not pay civil servants or even essential social services if it met ruinous bond interest payments in full.

Home owners and farmers alike were facing foreclosures of unpayable mortgages taken at usury.

Idle men and vast unsaleable quantities of materials of all kinds, food in such quantities the prices were the lowest in 1,000 years—these were features of the economic picture. But many people were forced on a miserable relief dole to avoid starvation.

The great majority of Canadians were stripped of their life savings due to the disastrous deflation which was permitted to wipe out their assets.

Today every city and province in Canada has abundant revenue and there is acute shortage of manpower and a scarcity of practically every kind of materials. Canada has made a free gift to Great Britain and our fighting allies of more than $3,000 million worth of goods of all kinds. She has made Great Britain an interest free loan of $1,000 million.

The Bank of Canada showed a profit of 400 per cent in one year. The chartered banks made the largest profits in history—so great in fact that they were at their wits' end to tuck them away in hidden reserves.

Farmers have paid off hundreds of millions of dollars of unjust mortgages while previously they were forced off the land for not being able to pay taxes, let alone their ordinary bills.

Why all this complete reversal of conditions in ten short years?

The war, of course, forced Canada, Great Britain, the United States and all the countries of the world to realize and put in force the very simple axiom—what is physically possible is also financially possible.

Don't let us ever again be told by anyone that Canada cannot provide full use of her vast resources in the public interest.

First Concentrated Attack East of Rhine Gains Mile

By BRUCE W. MUNN
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, March 12.—(BUP)—The American First Army launched its first concentrated attack from the Remagen bridgehead today and scored initial gains of more than a mile, boosting the number of captured German towns across the Rhine to 23.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges headquarters announced tonight that powerful infantry units supported by tanks struck eastward toward the superhighway paralleling the Rhine east of Remagen. They advanced more than a mile, and now were more than half way to highway.

SIZE OF BRIDGEHEAD

Late dispatches said after today's steady expansion of the bridgehead cross the Rhine from Remagen, it was four miles deep and 10 miles wide.

Joint blows of the U.S. First and Third armies wined out a German pocket northwest of Cobienz. Meagre reports did not make clear whether the destroyed pocket was the big one formed by the American junction on the Rhine in which some 23,000 Germans were trapped.

PLANES LEND HELP

At the same time heavy bombers laid a carpet of explosives on six key rail hubs east of the Rhine through which the Germans could move against the First Army bridgehead opposite Remagen.

King Discusses Peace Problems With Roosevelt

By C. R. BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, March 12—(CP)—Reactions of the Canadian government to the Dumbarton Oaks security agreement which will be the basis of the San Francisco conference on world organization for peace were discussed by Prime Minister MacKenzie King and President Roosevelt at a long, week-end conference.

The prime minister, who maintains his customary refusal to discuss details of his mission when in Washington, probably will make a report to the Canadian parliament when it meets March 19.

He went alone to the White House soon after his arrival from Ottawa Friday afternoon and remained until Saturday night. The customary daily calendar of the President's callers for Saturday was blank and it was assumed he and his guest had plenty of opportunity for long talks.

Fires Seen 100 Miles Away in Nagoya Raid

By E. G. VALENS
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

GUAM, March 12.—(BUP)—Fires visible nearly 100 miles at sea raced uncontrolled today through Nagoya, Japan's greatest aircraft manufacturing centre, after 300 Superfortresses sowed 2,000 tons of incendiary bombs through the centre of the city.

Swinging 165 miles west from still-burning Tokyo, the giant armada unloaded death and destruction on five square miles of war plants, business blocks, government buildings and flimsy dwellings in the tinder-box centre of Nagoya for two hours under cover of darkness early today.

Returning pilots said the rain of bombs, more concentrated even than the 2,300 tons which burned out 15 square miles of Tokyo Saturday, kindled "hellish fires" that threatened to spread far beyond the original target area.

OUT OF CONTROL

A Japanese communique indicated that a number of fires still were out of control at 4:30 p.m. (Tokyo time), more than 16 hours after the start of the raid.

From Washington came word that B-29s of the 20th Bomber Command in India also were in action today. A medium force—probably 50 strong—bombed industrial targets in the Singapore area for the sixth time. The 20th Command attacked Kuala Lumpur, 200 miles north of Singapore, Saturday.

Superfortresses which struck at Nagoya, Japan's third largest city with 1,400,000 inhabitants, caught the defenders off guard by bombing from 5,000 instead of the customary 20,000 feet.

Heavy Resistance On Iwo Island

GUAM, March 12—(AP)—Most of the northeast end of Iwo Jima was captured by United States marines yesterday, and the remaining Japanese defenders were fighting to hold the northern tip of the strategic island only 750 miles from Tokyo.

Resistance in the 1,000-yard deep triangle at the north end was described as heavy in a communique today, but 5th division marines were pressing forward with naval gunfire and artillery support.

The bloody battle for Iwo was in its final phase as the 3rd and 4th Division Marines, in their 21st day of fighting, drove through Japanese lines to reach the beaches and capture most of the cliff-fringed northeast coast.

The communique said the 3rd and 4th Divisions "drove through enemy lines to capture most of the east coast of Iwo island on March 11."

Continues Mild

Fair and mild weather is predicted to continue in the Edmonton district with the estimated high for today 45 above zero.

Maximum temperature yesterday was 40, and the overnight low, 26. At 2 p.m. it was 40 above. The estimated overnight low is 20, and the high for tomorrow 40.

Hopes Refunding Plan Will Reach Final Objective

Warning that the time might come when Alberta could not meet payments due under Premier Ernest Manning's refunding plan and at the same time pay for all other fixed charges, J. Percy Page (Ind.-Edmonton), spoke in the budget debate in the Legislature Monday afternoon.

Mr. Page was first opposition speaker to rise in the discussion following presentation of the budget Friday.

He declared he was not convinced that the government had explored every avenue to effect a suitable compromise with Alberta's bondholders. "However, since the government is committed to the plan as outlined Friday, let us all hope that nothing will intervene to make the conditions impossible of achievement," he added.

Mr. Page asked Premier Manning: "When the next depression comes along . . . as come it will . . . which of the following courses will you adopt; default on your proposed new issue of bonds, or eliminate such admirable services as maternity grants, cancer clinic, old age pension bonus, or widow's allowances?"

Chinese Repulse Jap Landing Plan

CHUNGKING, March 12—(AP)—Chinese forces have frustrated a small-scale Japanese attempt to land on the coast of Fukien province about 40 miles south of Japanese-held Foochow, killing 100 of the enemy and driving off the rest, Chinese field dispatches said today.

The landing attempt was covered by two Japanese warships and probably represented an effort to expand the enemy's protective area around Foochow as a safeguard against a possible Allied landing, the dispatches declared.

Other unofficial Chinese reports said Chinese forces had broken into the city of Suichwan in Kiangsi province.

Mrs. G. H. Graydon Dies From Fumes

Mrs. G. H. Graydon, 12022 102 avenue, admitted to the Misericordia hospital late last week, said by police to be suffering from gas fumes from the kitchen stove in her home, died at 1.15 p.m. Monday, hospital authorities stated.

Mrs. Graydon was the wife of the late G. H. Graydon, Edmonton druggist.

It was not learned whether an inquest would be held.

She was a prominent social welfare worker.

Increase Quotas Of Long Service Rotation Leaves

By CHESTER BLOOM
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, March 12—Men designated as overseas long-service personnel entitled to "rotation" quotas to be retained in Canada for at least six months, and perhaps permanently, will be selected by the Canadian commanders in the European and Italian theatres of operation.

The permanency of their stay in Canada depends on continued flow of replacements from Canada to the fighting fronts.

These replacements enabled 1,000 long-service personnel to be returned in March and 2,000 are planned to be brought back in April.

The men chosen for such "rotation" are those with the longest service overseas, some for more than five years. Men who have served in the line have a higher rating for such return than those serving in the bases. The theatre commanders will nominate them in the order of battle service, according to what the commanders think is just, fair and right.

FACTS ARE GIVEN

These and a multitude of other interesting facts concerning the Canadian Army operations overseas were given by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, minister of defence, at a press conference lasting more than one hour and a half this morning.

Erskine Woman, Two Children, Are Found Dead

Believed to have shot and killed her two small children before turning the weapon on herself, Royal Canadian Mounted Police discovered late Sunday evening the body of 22-year-old Mrs. Dorothy Havig, Erskine district resident.

Investigators found the bodies of the two children, 3-year-old Donna Havig, and 15-month-old Norma while looking for the mother.

The woman and her husband had been estranged, police said, and she was living about seven miles south of Erskine.

Investigations are continuing by the Stettler detachment of the RCMP.

Announce British Units With Crerar

21ST ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, March 12—(Reuters)—It was disclosed today that the following British units took part in the 1st Canadian Army operations which smashed the northern end of the Siegfried line and drove to the Rhine to the Wesel area:

The Somerset Light Infantry, the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, the Worcestershire Regiment and units of the Brigade of Guards.

It was disclosed previously that the British 30th Corps fought as part of Gen. Crerar's army during the offensive. British units named previously were the 51st Highland Division and the 53rd Welsh Division.

Plan Exchange

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—An agreement has been reached between Britain and Germany for a new exchange of British and German civilians. Approximately 250 British nationals will be repatriated for an equal number of Germans. Approximately half the German civilians to be exchanged were brought from Canada.

2 Party Members Suspended by CCF

WINNIPEG, March 12—(CP)—Two CCF members of the Manitoba legislature, B. R. Richards of The Pas and Dr. D. L. Johnson of Brandon, have been suspended from membership in the Manitoba CCF party.

Suspension was approved in a resolution passed early today at a meeting of 40 provincial party delegates, called to consider a joint statement made recently in the legislature by the members.

In the statement they criticized CCF party leadership and present party policy, and urged that the CCF should co-operate with the Liberal and Labor-Progressive parties.

The meeting opened early Saturday but did not end until after midnight. It was closed to the press.

In a joint statement issued Sunday the two members said they would continue to sit in the legislature as independent members in opposition to the Liberal-Conservative coalition government, but they intended to appeal their suspension to the provincial CCF convention next fall.

Plan to Continue Aircrew Training

OTTAWA, March 12—(CP)—Air Minister Gibson announced last night that an agreement has been reached between the Canadian and United Kingdom governments whereby additional aircrew will be trained for the RAF on a limited contract basis following completion of the British Commonwealth air training plan March 31 and the satisfying of all aircrew needs for three of the participating nations.

(Col. Gibson said in an interview Saturday the winding up of the air training plan and arrangements for the operation of aircrew schools for the RAF were two of the immediate objectives of the air force program. It was learned the reduced training scheme will see Canadian instructors training English fledglings brought here from Britain.)

There will also be a Canadian "shadow" scheme to look after normal replacements and keep in being an establishment which will be useful after the war.

The announcement said that although all details of the contract between the two governments have not yet been settled, training will begin immediately at eight schools formerly operated under the air training plan.

Americans Gaining On Mindanao Isle

By RUSSELL BRINES

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT ZAMBOANGA, Mindanao, March 12—(AP)—Tank-led American infantry men drove within two miles of Zamboanga town yesterday in a swift morning push from the invasion beaches which are being plastered with Japanese mortar fire.

The 162nd and elements of the 163rd Regiments crossed the Baliwasan river, 2½ miles west of the town of Zamboanga, proceeding onward and fanning out to the northeast, simultaneously crossing two-thirds of San Roque airstrip, the principal airfield in the area.

Within a half hour of landing on the southwestern tip of Mindanao Saturday, the infantrymen led by tanks took small Wolfe airstrip—the first main objective. Artillery spotting planes began operating from the overgrown Wolfe airstrip while it was still under Japanese artillery fire from Japanese positions in the nearby hills.

Protests Against "Muzzle" on Press

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—Secrecy of an order of service circulated among clergymen by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York for thanksgiving devotions on V-day was attacked by an English vicar Dr. L. Macassey of Maple Rudham, Oxfordshire. He said: "One of the instructions I greatly object to is that the wording is not to be communicated to the press. Fancy people trying to muzzle the press of Great Britain!"

Quebec's Stand On Conscription Puzzles France

TORONTO, March 12—(CP)—The people of France "cannot understand French Canada's refusal to accept conscription," Robert Wischner, newspaperman from Lyon, France, said today in a press interview here.

"There is some feeling in France regarding Canada's conscription issue," Mr. Wischner said. "Although we have seen the big war effort this country has made, the French cannot understand French Canada's refusal to accept conscription when it is a war measure in all other countries.

"But we have seen Canadian troops in France. We know what Canadians did at Dieppe and we realize how much Canada has done in this war."

SEE EARLY END OF ORGANIZED NAZI RESISTANCE

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—Most informed sources in London are of the opinion that one day the Allies would issue a communique announcing that all organized German resistance had ceased, but that isolated pockets still were holding out. Hitler may eventually give up northern Germany and withdraw his armies to the south for a last-ditch stand. According to unofficial reports reaching London from inside Germany a salt-mine near Berchtesgaden has been prepared as a possible fortress hold out.

It Says Here

by Bob Hope

HOLLYWOOD, March 12—If you think the world is moving pretty fast now, aviation experts predict that planes, in the near future, will travel 1,500 miles an hour. How about that? I knew some day they'd develop something to overtake woman drivers. Fifteen hundred miles an hour! That's travelling faster than sound. In fact, Sinatra could do a broadcast in Hollywood and be in New York to squeal at his own voice. But the secret of those new planes would be a new and tremendously powerful fuel. Well, it won't exactly be new. It'll be an adaptation of some of that perfume movie stars use at premieres. And when you get on one of those planes, you know what the new hostess greeting will be? "Hi . . . G'bye!" But won't it be nice! You can say to the missus, "C'mon, Honey, pack a lunch, load the kids on the plane, and let's go picnicking this afternoon in Afghanistan!"

Performance of Loyal Edmontons In Italy Proves Second to None

By WILLIAM BOSS

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC, March 12.—(CP)—For distinguished fighting, the performance of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment during the last year is second to none.

This 1st division regiment has figured in the tough battles waged by the 2nd Canadian Corps of the British 8th Army since the Edmontons shared honors for liberation of the Adriatic port of Ortona in December, 1943.

This has meant patrols on the Arielli ridge in the Adriatic sector, battles like those last spring for the Hitler line, the Gothic line fighting of last summer and Lombardy Plains "puddle jumping" involving establishment of bridgeheads with each successive river and canal crossing.

PREPARE FOR ATTACK

In the first three months of last year the Edmontons held and patrolled along the Arielli ridge sector. In April they went out of the line for infantry-tank co-operation training in preparation for the May Hitler line assault.

In this attack, launched the morning of May 23, fighting was heaviest and enemy fire thickest in their part of the sector that day. But by nightfall the Edmontons were across the line.

The battalion reorganized, then re-entered the pursuit battle up the Liri valley. First Frosinone, important centre on Route 6 between Naples and Rome, then Monte Radicino overlooking the town of Ferentino, farther up the same road, fell to them and sister regiments.

After Rome's fall to 5th Army troops June 4, the Albertans were

Riot Develops At University

KINGSTON, Ont., March 12—(CP)—Inter-faculty rivalry developed into a riot just after classes began today at Queen's University here, resulting in injury to three art students. The riot was the aftermath of a basketball game last Thursday in which the Arts team defeated the Science cagers.

This morning Science students 500 strong paraded to the new Arts building on the campus and in a driving snowstorm dragged the Artsmen out one by one, shaved their heads and painted their faces yellow—Queen's Science colour. The Artsmen, bolstered by courageous girls of the faculty, only numbered 100 but waded into the attacking science students.

A meeting was held in Principal R. C. Wallace's offices yesterday with leaders of both Science and Arts faculty students' societies at which time Dr. Wallace warned the student leaders against further disturbances.

This morning's riot was broken up by Dr. Wallace himself, who waded through the fighting students and managed to stop the fighting.

Dr. Wallace is a former president of the University of Alberta.

City Regiment Second to None In Italo Battles

pulled back for rest and reorganization in the Piedimonte D'Alife area. It was the beginning of the "Summer Idyll"— stiff morning exercises and afternoons off, furloughs in Naples and newly-liberated Rome.

Meanwhile other 8th Army formations reached the Arno river, Florence and the fringes of the enemy's Gothic line.

TOOK OVER SECTOR

The Edmontons were brought up in mid-August and with other regiments of the 1st Canadian division, took over part of the Arno river sector. They were preparing to assault the Gothic when it was decided to direct the main blow in the Adriatic sector.

Speedily they switched across, and began, the night of Aug. 26, by crossing the Metauro river. Monteciccardo, between the Metauro and the Foglio, was captured after grim fighting, after which a further move was made giving them ground commanding the Foglio in their sector.

Once a sister regiment of their brigade had infilterated beyond the Foglio and seized the rubbled town of Pozzo Alto, key Gothis line position, the Edmontons passed through, stormed Montelluro in a textbook-perfect attack, pushed on to Fanano on a ridge overlooking Cattolica, captured it, and then came out for a rest.

They came back into battle in mid-September and participated in the fighting for the San Martino-San Lorenzo ridge. One of the six unsuccessful attempts at taking San Martino before the seventh succeeded was theirs.

Next was the brilliant San Fortunato battle. Jumping off from a bridgehead established over the Ausa river, the Edmontons achieved a night infiltration of the enemy positions defending this ridge—last obstacle to the Lombardy plains. Air and artillery had considerably softened up the feature, scores of enemy dead littered the ground.

TAKE GUNS ALONG

The Edmontons noiselessly picked their way up, over the top, down the far side and out onto a spur behind where they sat quietly till morning. They brought their six-pounder anti-tank guns along with them.

At dawn Sept. 19 other regiments attacked the front, pushed the Germans from the top into the fire from the Edmontons' guns. It was a slaughter and 300 prisoners were taken.

The regiment rested until mid-October and went into action on the Lombardy plains battle around Cesena.

Crossing the Pisciatello river the Edmontons seized the village of Tomba Della Pietra a mile or so north of the Rimini-Bologna highway. They helped force the enemy back from there to the Savio, pivoting on Cesena and enabling the liberation of the city by other troops. Then they went on to establish a bridgehead over the Savio.

There was another respite, until the Canadian Corps returned to action at the end of November. The Lamone river had been crossed, the Naviglio bridgehead established and held by the Carleton and York Regiment and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the epic fighting of Dec. 13, when the Edmontons went in to take over part of that bridgehead that night.

REPULSE ATTACKS

More enemy counter-attacks were beaten off during the next four days and the hold was expanded slightly.

On Dec. 19 a terrific battle was launched by the corps to break out from the bridgehead and reach the Senio. It raged all that night, reached a crisis late Dec. 20. The Germans cracked that night and next morning Bagnacavallo had fallen and the Edmontons had brought themselves within easy patrolling distance of the Senio river.

Christmas—"the best since leaving Canada"—was spent in Cervia. They'd been pulled out Dec. 24 and returned Dec. 26, having enjoyed the fruits of three months' "scrounging" and whatever it was the cook did to their well-stocked turkey farm.

Aside from patrolling the Senio dyke, and a portion of the vale Di Comacchio, only notable action this year was their part in the elimination of the enemy's "bulge" over the Senio river northeast of Faenza. Once Granarola had been outflanked on January 4th, the Edmontons cleared the town, then attacked over the Naviglio to bring the Eighth Army front up to the Senio river in that sector.

Increase Quotas Of Long-Service Rotation Leaves

among General McNaughton's statements were the following:

The reinforcement situation has been "cleared up, both factually and spiritually," not only from a short term but from a long term basis as well, depending, however on the uncertainty of battle everywhere.

Of the 16,000 men of the NRMA authorized to be sent under the first order-in-council quota, their attitude has been "very satisfactory." This applies especially to those who refused to accept general service after they "crossed the gangplank" and who are not included in the numerous others who accepted general service.

ORDER VERY USEFUL

Gen. McNaughton, however, would not give the figures of those who had "crossed the gangplank" without accepting general service, or the total of those who had. He said, however, that the order-in-council had been "very useful" in liquidating the NRMA forces.

The minister of defence declined positively to say how many of the original 6,300 men first designated as absent without leave were still missing. He said that his first statement giving that number had included everyone unaccounted for at the due date of the sailing list at headquarters. Subsequently, further accounting had shown that this figure included some who had been hospitalized and others who had been eliminated on a final physical examination; also some who had been given last-minute leave for compassionate reasons.

Under persistent cross-questioning by the roomful of newspaper correspondents, General McNaughton refused to give further figures on the exact numbers still missing except in percentages of total draftees and volunteers going overseas from the date of the original order-in-council up to the present.

PERCENTAGE DOWN

On this basis, the percentage of those missing, he said, was down to 24.2 per cent. of the total on March 5, last, and since then another three hundred men had been picked up so that now the percentage was down to 20 per cent. That 20 per cent. was based on the numbers including also further drafts going overseas since March 5th. But this figure also included the numbers of men hospitalized or released at the last minute for causes outlined in the foregoing.

It was evident that many of the newspapermen were confused by this statement of the General's concerning the percentage of men still missing. It seemed clear, however, that what the General was trying to emphasize was that the percentage of missing men was of that number of NRMA men who had always resisted volunteering for overseas duty and was not based on the total number of all men going overseas, including volunteers, only draftees who had not volunteered, but including such resisters up to the present.

The general emphasized that this percentage agreed coincided with his previous estimates of 20 to 30 per cent. comprising the "hard core" or resisters in the NRMA.

Also Gen. McNaughton repeatedly emphasized that accurate figures were being prepared and would be released to parliament when it assembles.

Gen. McNaughton replied to numerous questions at great length concerning the composition of the First Canadian Army in the European (now German) theatre of operations. Along with it, he presented numerous charts showing the fluidity of the Canadian and British army division in the various battles that had taken place in France and the low countries; how they had been shifted back and forth as the occasions of fighting demanded between British and Canadian commands.

For example, at one time, three Canadian divisions were in the British Second Army.

CONSTANTLY CHANGING

Gen. McNaughton saw no reason to question Gen. Eisenhower's statement that, at the time it was issued Canadian divisions comprised only about 20 per cent of the First Canadian Army, the bulk of the other forces being English, Scotch, Welsh and Polish divisions. But, owing to the fluidity of the fighting this composition was constantly changing and percentage might easily have been increased since the day the statement was issued.

The minister repeatedly refused to say who had established the First Canadian Army in Britain except that it was on the order of the high command. Pressed to say whether if the Canadian divisions in Italy were included in the First Canadian Army whether they would not form a substantial army, the General answered that it was impossible to say exactly what an "army" included—it might for example be at a certain time a corps with only one division and later several corps with a number of divisions according as the exigencies of fighting required.

In this connection, the defence department released a lengthy detailed statement covering the whole field of what an "army" means.

Continuing his lengthy statement, Gen. McNaughton also made these points:

COMMITMENTS MAINTAINED

Front line commitments of the Canadian Army have been fully maintained. In actual fact, the situation with respect to these commitments has been eased due to the steady increment of reinforcements to various units.

In this connection, the General explained off the record the constitution of various divisions in front line and support and headquarters troops. Troops had been sent to Italy, he said, in conformity with the supreme headquarters requirements of the "greatest good from the greatest numbers." When the Canadian Corps were sent to Italy, the situation was so advanced as it is now; in fact, there was no other way then than to establish a Canadian First Army in the European theatre as it was the only additional army then fully organized for that purpose. In round numbers, he said, there were between 300 and 400 officers and 1,000 of other ranks in army headquarters.

In the early part of his remarks concerning "rotation" quotas of overseas long-service personnel, Gen. McNaughton said that as fast as these men arrived home they would be posted to training and other establishments that full benefit might be obtained from their experience overseas. It was his ambition to use the latest experience acquired by these men in training others just as was being done with the Canadian reserves in England.

Men returned as physically unfit were in a different category. A fair proportion of these men would be presumably retained in Canada though those in a low category might go back, but mostly those men were fellows who had seen hard service. He recalled that so far, only 55 men returned in quotas had gone back overseas, adding no body went back who had not expressed a desire to return but I haven't excluded that they may not go back later on."

The general said that as a matter of fact he was hard put to get all the experienced men that he wanted to fit into the training scheme, men with the most recent battle experience. The primary reason in retaining these men was for instructional purposes in home quite apart from any humanitarian purpose.

Gen. McNaughton refused to say anything concerning plans for service in Japan as that information must come from the high command.

In conclusion, the General said he wished to reiterate what he had often said before, that no one could forecast the end of the war in Europe, that every Canadian must throw their whole effort into the war until victory is achieved and peace safely confirmed.

He was flying Wednesday night to the West, he said, would be in Regina and Grenfell Thursday and hoped to be back in Ottawa on Friday.

Gregory K. Zhukov's army was storming the Oder estuary north and south of Stettin, and a great battle for river crossings was in full swing.

USING 3 ARMIES

The German high command said three Russian armies were hammering the Nazi bridgehead across the Oder from Stettin. Counter-blows knocked out 28 Soviet tanks, it added.

A Nazi communique said Zhukov's First White Russian Army continued relentless attacks in the Oder valley before Berlin, where a Soviet bridgehead earlier reached within 26 miles of the capital.

British United Press correspondent Henry Shapiro reported from Moscow that the Soviet news blackout on the Berlin front continued, "pending a decisive breakthrough which is expected in the near future."

He defined the black-out front as extending from the area of Kuestrin, 38 miles east of Berlin, to Goerlitz, on the Neisse river 100 miles south of Kuestrin, 105 southeast of Berlin, and 54 east of Dresden. This suggested that the whole defence system east and southeast of Berlin was about to fall apart.

CITIES ATTACKED

The German broadcasts suggested that the American planes were attacking Stettin and Swinemuende, 35 miles to the north at the Baltic entrance to Stettin Bay.

The raids came as Soviet front dispatches were reporting that the Red Army had driven within sight of Stettin after breaking through the city's last belt of outer fortifications on the east.

"Stettin's position appeared hopeless," a front dispatch published in the Moscow newspaper Pravda said.

Soviet forces holding bridgeheads across the Oder 30-odd miles due east of Berlin attacked with four infantry divisions — 60,000 men — in an attempt to shake loose the German hold on the anchor fortress city of Kuestrin, Ernst von Hammer, German DNB agency commentator, said.

CLAIM DRIVEN BACK

Despite the weight of the attack and its tank and aerial support, the Russians were driven back into their "small bridgeheads" on all sectors between Frankfurt and Kuestrin, Von Hammer said. In Kuestrin itself, astride the Oder, 38 miles east of Berlin, German troops were said to have improved their positions.

One German column broke through and relieved the encircled garrison of the old city, Von Hammer said. In the newer part of Kuestrin, Soviet shock troops "largely were wiped out in barricade and house to house fighting," he said.

Moscow dispatches said the fall of the former free port of Danzig, on the Baltic far to the north-east, appeared near. Bitter street battles were said to be raging in the suburbs nine to 15 miles from the heart of Danzig.

Hopes Refunding Plan Will Reach Final Objective

the Dominion governments are not entirely without blame in the question. He said a more generous attitude of give-and-take on the part of both governments at meetings of representatives on the default situation might have staved off the desperate situation that resulted.

"It must always be a matter of regret that both governments acted like schoolboys and failed to show anything like the spirit of goodwill which society has a right to expect of every good citizen," he said.

Dealing with the treasury branches, Mr. Page said they had cost the province $2,000,000 in actual deficits, to which must be added the "huge sum" of $492,000 set aside as a contingency reserve. "Are the services which these branches are providing for certain parts of the province worth the outlay of more than $2,500,000 which must be borne by all the province?" he asked.

ON PILOT PLANT

He discussed the government contract with Oil Sands Ltd., under which a $250,000 pilot plant is to be built in the tar sand area to test extraction processes. "Despite the fact that the minister of public works (Hon. W. A Fallow) still insists that the Dominion government is sabotaging northern development, I think the facts are that he is just as wide of the mark as he was a few days ago when talking about the ownership of radio station CFRN."

Mr. Page said the balance sheet of Oil Sands Ltd. as shown on April 19, 1944, disclosed current assets of the company as $11,578, while current liabilities amounted to $53,218.

"Yet this is the company which the government now proposes to finance by taking $250,000 out of the post-war reconstruction fund," he said.

Mr. Page pointed to a statement by Premier William Aberhart in "The Social Credit Manual," in reference to the tar sand deposits: "Social Credit claims that this cultural heritage is the property of the individuals who are bona-fide citizens of the province and should never be allowed to go entirely to the control of any small group of men."

LACKS JUSTIFICATION

He asked Premier Manning: "How do you justify this present deal with the Oil Sands company, whereby the company may purchase the project outright at the end of ten years, with the expressed determination of the late Premier Aberhart to prevent this very thing?"

Mr. Page suggested an efficiency expert should be called in to examine the present government structure. He expressed the belief there was a great deal of overlapping of departments, and that this step would save many thousands of dollars, as well as improve efficiency.

Americans Open Drive From Rhine Bridgehead

Nazi broadcasts acknowledged that the First Army was pouring reinforcements into the Rhine foothold. They said troops pushed across the Rhine north of the Remagen Bridge in assault boats for two new crossings. The Nazis estimated that upward of 50,000 men were massed in the bridgehead ready for a push against the southern flank of the Ruhr.

Supreme headquarters said Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' troops firmly held the initiative in the Remagen bridgehead. The Germans still were shelling it, despite the acquisition of high ground on which some enemy observation posts were situated.

Because of the nature of the operations Shaef reports were purposely vague. For security reasons a time lag was imposed in many sectors.

The First Army's reported drive into the Remagen breach came as the Canadian First and U.S. Ninth Armies to the north finished off the last German salient west of the Rhine in the Wesel area and moved into position for an assault on the river line.

TROOPS MASSING

Enemy sources continued to report a massing of United Kingdom and Canadian forces for an attempt to cross the Rhine south of Emmerich. The German DNB agency said that only two divisions of the British 2nd Army had so far been employed in the Allied offensive and the bulk of Lt. Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's army was poised for a major attack at the Rhine barrier.

To the south, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's U.S. Third Army closed to within a mile of Coblenz from the north and southwest and cleared all except a 15-mile stretch of the Moselle river's north bank between Coblenz and Trier.

North of the Mosel, Patton's men were rapidly mopping up the remnants of an estimated 23,000 Germans pocketed in the Eifel mountains.

FEW ESCAPING

Scattered German armored and infantry groups still were reported escaping through the 15-mile Moselle gap between Cochem, 22 miles southwest of Coblenz, and Erden, 23 miles northeast of Trier, but the bulk of the pocketed Nazi divisions faced almost certain death or capture.

German military spokesmen said Lt.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges was shifting the bulk of his U.S. First Army into the breakthrough area to exploit the unexpected capture of the Ludendorf bridge at Remagen last Wednesday.

Censored dispatches from the partially-blacked out Rhine front reported only that the Americans were pushing out steadily all around the permimeter of a bridgehead that yesterday extended at least three miles inland and nine miles along the river bank.

10-MILE BREACH

Radio Berlin, however, said the Americans already had pushed two armored and two infantry divisions across the Rhine and held a salient more than 10 miles wide.

American troops, Berlin said, crossed the Rhine in assault boats this morning at two more points inside the northern flank of the bridgehead. They landed on either side of the captured river village of Rheinbreitbach, 3½ miles north of the Ludendorff bridge, in a move apparently aimed at covering the construction of pontoon bridges.

Allied headquarters had no immediate confirmation of the enemy reports and field dispatches said only that the Americans pushed out their bridgehead perimeter another 400 yards eastward during the night against sporadic opposition.

The Germans continued to trumpet reports that powerful Nazi armored and infantry reinforcements were ramming against the Americans. But latest official information indicated the enemy was still fighting only a limited delaying action and that his reserves had not yet joined the battle.

SHELLFIRE INCREASES

"Artillery fire on both sides has increased to hurricane intensity," a German propaganda broadcast said. "American pontoon bridges are being subjected to concentrated fire from German artillery".

At least seven east bank towns were in American hands, an eighth was partially cleared, and by German admission Hodges' men were fighting inside two others on the southern flank of the salient.

Censored dispatches said the attack was still progressing favorably up to a late hour last night and that the enemy still appeared to be fighting only a delaying action to block the way northward into the Ruhr.

MOST OPPOSITION

Most of the opposition was coming from German long-range guns emplaced in the hills to the north and from Nazi dive-bombers that tried repeatedly to break through the Allied fighter screen to knock out the Ludendorff bridge.

At least 23 of 47 attacking German planes were shot down over the week-end and the bridge was reported still intact late yesterday. At the same time, hundreds of field guns massed on both sides of the Rhine laid a tremendous rolling barrage across the hills to the east, silencing one after another of the enemy's batteries.

Nazis to Fight For "Every Inch" Italo Territory

ROME, March 12—(A.P.)—The Allied 5th Army push toward the German stronghold of Vergato, southwest of Bologna, slowed today as Allied headquarters reported increased German resistance along the 5th's entire front.

Kesselring

Patrols probing enemy strength met their greatest opposition along the winter mountain line before Bologna.

Vergato, on the Pistoia-Bologna highway, has been outflanked, but its defenders continue to battle strongly.

British 8th Army units on the east coast were reported to have carried out aggressive patrolling.

Any hope the enemy would give up Vergato under threat of encirclement appeared blasted when American troops along the Reno River south of the town caught heavy mortar and machine-gun fire from the stronghold early yesterday.

CAPTURED ORDER

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring has instructed his troops to defend "every inch" of Italian territory, an order taken from a captured German soldier disclosed.

"You do not defend Italy in these battles but Germany itself," the order said. "Not one inch of the ground must be surrendered to our enemies without a battle. Officers and men alike must be permeated with this thought."

"I know that the troops and particularly the commanders are convinced of the necessity of this campaign."

Would Not Agree Not to Fight Nazis: Finally Exchanged

STOCKHOLM, March 12—(Reuters)—Lt.-Col. B. H. Bonham Carter, who refused liberty at the last moment in order to retain his right to fight against the Germans, has arrived at Helsingborg with British and Turkish internees brought from Germany.

Col. Bonham Carter was due to be exchanged with other war prisoners last September, but when the Germans asked him to sign an undertaking that he would not again fight against them, he refused and went back to camp.

He was able to sail this time because the British war office informed the German authorities that it intended to put him on pension.

Faint Hope of Victory

Hitler Exhorts German Nation To Continue Fanatical Resistance

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM

LONDON, March 12.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, declaring the Allies are "drunk by their orgy of victory" and intend to destroy the German nation, exhorted Germans yesterday to fanatical resistance until the Allies "get tired and will yet be broken."

"The year 1918 will not be repeated," said a manifesto in Hitler's name, marking the 10th anniversary of military conscription. It was broadcast from Berlin.

Offering a pallid hope of distant victory, Hitler asserted "Only those suffer defeat who are unworthy of winning victory" and indicated Germany would fight on in guerrilla resistance if her armies were smashed.

"We witness both in the east and in the west what our people would have to face. Our task is therefore clear: To put up resistance and to wear down our enemies so long that until, in the end, they will get tired and will yet be broken. Everybody has therefore to fulfill his duty."

UNSHAKEABLE WILL

"It is my unshakeable determination and it must become the unshakeable will of us all to show the world no worse example than our forefathers have given," said the proclamation, dated at Hitler's headquarters.

"The year 1918 will not be repeated. We know the fate Germany would meet otherwise. Drunk by their orgy of victory, our enemies have clearly announced their war aims—extermination of the German nation.

"Even if fate has turned against us now, there can be no doubt that these reverses can be overcome, as so often before, with steadfastness and courage, with endurance and fanaticism."

He declared there "can be but one command:

"To defy all dangers with iron determination and to do everything to bring about a turn for the better, and for this purpose to strengthen the power of resistance of our nation and its armed forces both materially and spiritually.

GREAT FANATICISM

"Just as great must be our fanaticism in the destruction of those who are trying to resist our aims."

German military conscription in March, 1935, "gained Germany the means necessary for her self-defence, without which there would be no Germany by now," Hitler said, and if Germany had remained militarily impotent, "Europe already would have fallen now to Bolshevism."

Again Hitler played the old themes that Germany had rearmed only after "our enemies" spurned German proposals for disarmament that a "Jewish alliance between capitalism and bolshevism" menaces Europe, and that Russia "built up a gigantic armed force with the outspoken aim to suddenly attack Europe, which was made powerless by the Jews."

LIFE'S LIKE THAT—"Now do an imitation of how you'll act when you get the bill for it, dear . . . I think that will be even funnier!"

Sinkings Increase

Nazi U-Boats Shift To Guerilla Warfare

By HENRY B. JAMESON

LONDON, March 12.—(AP)—German submarines which used to hunt in packs now have turned to guerilla warfare with the aid of various new devices, including the now famous "Schnorkel" and man-carrying kites for observation.

Despite this, the Allies have just announced more U-boat sinkings in February than in January, although admitting a "moderate number" of ships sunk in the new campaign.

The schnorkel is a ventilation pipe about 18 inches in diameter, enclosing inlet and outlet pipes, with valves that prevent sea water going down.

This enables the submarine to coast along slightly under the surface of the water and obviates the necessity of surfacing every 24 hours to charge batteries.

KITE FOR CRUISING

The kite is for use in surface cruising. It is simply a chair supported by roto arms like a helicopter, but not power driven. The surface speed of the submarine rotates the blades and gives the kite the necessary lift.

A lookout man in the chair can be lifted to a height of 400 feet, maintaining communication with the U-boat by means of a telephone line. A combined parachute and dinghy is carried in the kite in such a position that if the sub has to crash dive while the observer is "upstairs" he has only to pull a cord and jump.

Results of counter-measures against the schnorkel have been encouraging, it has been officially stated here.

King Discusses Peace Problems With Roosevelt

April 25, and the proposals expected to be presented by Canada and others of the so-called middle powers for changes in the Dumbarton Oaks agreement to give greater recognition to those countries which are not of the Big Five, but which have made and can make great contributions to victory and the maintenance of peace.

The President also gave the Prime Minister a detailed report of the Yalta conference between himself, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, and his private talks with Mr. Churchill at Malta and Alexandria.

VISITS CORDELL HULL

Mr. King's only official engagements outside the White House Saturday were for a call at the British embassy and a visit to the bedside of the ailing former secretary of state, Cordell Hull, in the naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md.

It was assumed that a part of the conferences here was devoted to plans for Canadian participation in the Pacific war after victory in Europe.

The Prime Minister's visit to the White House coincided with the presence in Washington of Maj.-Gen. Patrick Hurley, United States ambassador to China, Lt.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, American commander in China, Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, and Admiral J. Halsey, commander of the United States 3rd Fleet in the Pacific.

Mr. King later left for Williamsburg, Va., where he will remain, enjoying a quiet rest, until Monday night.

PLAN TO CONTINUE TALKS TOMORROW

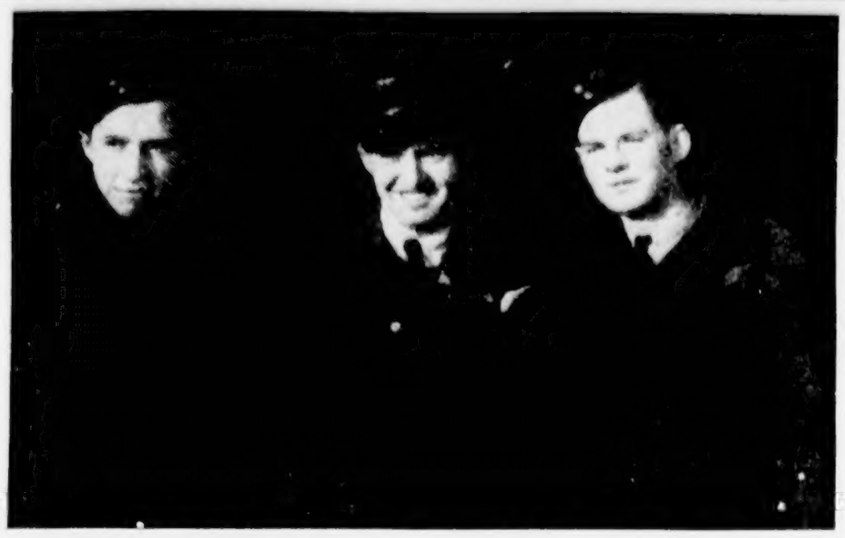

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., March 12.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King rested today from the affairs of state after week-end conferences at Washington with President Roosevelt which will be resumed tomorrow.

The Prime Minister told The Canadian Press that after his talks with the President Friday evening and Saturday he could say that relations between the United States and Canada had never been better. Although he could not at present disclose the topics under discussion he probably would make a report to parliament at its next session.

Mr. King will remain here until tonight, when he leaves for Washington. He will remain in the capital until Wednesday night, when he will depart for Ottawa.

Will Accept 50 Boys

Change Entrance Rulings For Canadian Navy College

OTTAWA, March 12.—(CP)—Navy Minister Macdonald announced today that candidates for the Royal Canadian Naval College at Royal Roads, B.C., now will be accepted if they are between 15 years and 10 months and 18 years of age on Sept. 1 of the year of entry, which represents an increase of two months over the previous upper age limit.

Mr. Macdonald, who is chairman of the board of governors of the college, also announced that for the first time entrance examination papers were being prepared in both French and English. Applicants also may be examined in Spanish or German instead of French.

Last year 60 candidates were admitted to the college and Mr. Macdonald said it was anticipated at least 50 would be accepted for entry to the two-year course starting next fall.

Fees and living expenses for the complete college course total $550 for the first year and $300 for the second.

SEA CADETS ELIGIBLE

Sea Cadet candidates are eligible for scholarships offered by the Navy League of Canada to the six Sea Cadets receiving the highest marks on entrance. These scholarships defray the total expenses for the two years at the college. They are awarded on a regional basis, two going to Ontario, one to Quebec, one to the prairie provinces, one to British Columbia, and one to the Maritimes.

In addition, Dominion cadetships are offered to applicants who are sons of officers and men of the Canadian naval or merchant service who have been killed or incapacitated during hostilities. Sons of retired officers, or of ratings with 15 years' service, are also eligible for the government awards, which are sufficient to cover all expenses.

At the conclusion of the course cadets are appointed midshipmen and have the option of joining either the RCN (permanent force) or the RCNVR (permanent reserve). About 30 graduates are selected each year for entry into the permanent force.

An educational standing approximately equivalent to junior matriculation is required for candidates who write the entrance examination, held in May. Those passing are interviewed in July by a selection board of naval officers, who seek to ascertain their interests, aptitudes, and general officer-like qualities.

Count De Marigny Arrives in Canada: Hoping to Remain

HALIFAX, March 12.—(CP)—Count Alfred de Marigny, acquitted last year at Nassau, Bahamas, of the slaying of his multi-millionaire father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, was here over the week-end on his way to Montreal to join his wife, the former Nancy Oakes. De Marigny arrived here as third officer aboard a Canadian merchant ship which he joined at Havana. He said he planned to stay in Canada if immigration authorities removed a barrier which limits the stay of non-resident merchant navy personnel to 30 days. Failing that, he said he hoped to make his home in Newfoundland.

Answering Some Questions About

PLASTICS

WHAT ARE PLASTICS? Plastics are those versatile man-made materials from which radio cabinets, automobile fittings, toothbrushes, picnic dishes, telephones and many other articles are moulded. There are more than twenty basic types of plastics—some clearer than glass, some colorful as jewels, some durable as metal and others lighter than wood.

WHAT ARE PLASTICS MADE FROM? Plastics are chemical synthetics, which have their origin in such substances as limestone, coal, salt, water and air. Sawdust, wood pulp, asbestos, chopped rags—all these are used in the making of plastics!

WHAT CAN PLASTICS DO? Plastic mouldings can resist oil, water, chemicals and heat. They can be made as flexible as rubber, as rigid as stone. They can be moulded speedily into innumerable simple or complicated shapes. They can be fashioned easily into beautiful fabrics; spun into silk-fine stockings.

HOW CAN PLASTICS BE USED? During the war plastics have gone into action as plane, tank and ship components, and as fusecaps for shells and grenades. When peace returns they will find a host of uses—in homes, as furniture, hardware, electric fittings, kitchen and personal accessories—in industry, as machine components—in transportation, as components and fittings for the gleaming motor cars, aeroplanes and water craft of tomorrow.

WHAT ABOUT COSTS? Because they are readily produced in quantity, plastics provide an economical solution to the problem of making many articles that are needed in large numbers. Canada is well provided with the raw materials for plastics.

Paying As We Go

A point not to be overlooked in the budget statement presented on Friday is the fact that the province has lived within its income since 1936, creating no new debt, while whittling down the old. That is why the provincial finances are in balance without a heavy increase in taxation having been made.

The record is in this respect similar to that of the city of Edmonton, which has also been living within its income for nearly as many years and is now in excellent financial position. In both cases a considerable amount of improvement and maintenance has been done, and funds accumulated with which to finance more extensive construction when materials and labor are available.

It may be sanguine to suppose that either the province or the city can get along in future without borrowing, or even large scale borrowing, at times. But the point has been clearly established that it isn't necessary to throw a block of ruinous interest-bearing bonds on the market every year or so and thus dissipate in advance more and more of the future earnings of the taxpayers.

—V—

Income Taxation

Figures have been published which show that for the year 1942 income tax payments made by individuals in Canada amounted to $189,237,538. Of this amount farmers paid $440,212.

The inference being drawn by some critics is that the farmers got off too easily, that they erred on the safe side in making out income tax returns, or that the tax collectors did not go after them as vigorously as they do after salaried men and wage-earners.

There is another point, however, which cannot be overlooked. A good deal of the farmer's income is in kind, not cash—consisting of things which are grown on the farm and consumed by his family. For such things, income taxes cannot be collected with any degree of exactitude, because it is not practicable even for the farmer to keep accurate track of them. But the wage or salary earner gets all his income in cash, therefore can and must account for every cent of it.

The importance of this factor is shown in the list of farmer payments by provinces for the year in question, 1942. Here is the list:

Prince Edward Island	$ 1,539
Nova Scotia	5,690
New Brunswick	459
Quebec	5,205
Ontario	79,834
Manitoba	54,661
Saskatchewan	205,835
Alberta	63,313
British Columbia	43,876
Total	$440,212

Saskatchewan farmers in that year paid more income taxes than the farmers in all the other seven provinces lying east of the Rocky Mountains.

How come?

Farming in Saskatchewan is a specialized, rather than a mixed type. Grain-growing is—and was still more three years ago—the predominant practice and farm income consisted in the main of cash received for the sale of grain. In those provinces where a more varied type of farming was the rule, the farmer got more of his income in kind and less in cash—hence paid less income taxes. Tax collections were lowest in proportion, this table shows, where farms were smallest and mixed farming most general.

Taxes imposed on incomes are thought by many to be the fairest of all kinds of taxes. That would be so if the income of every person, in kind and in cash, could be exactly determined. But that just can't be done. The farm isn't the only place where it can't be done, but the impracticability is more readily apparent there than elsewhere.

In the former Great War the Government attempted to impose taxes which would hit the farmer and the town man exactly alike. The farmer was required to account for every egg eaten by his family—and for all other home-produced and home-consumed income items in like detail. But having plenty of other things to do, the farmer just didn't set up a book-keeping department, and the scheme broke down. It was laughed out of existence.

The root trouble with income taxation is not that some people try to dodge while others wouldn't dodge if they could, nor that tax collectors discriminate. It lies deeper than that. Nobody has yet found or suggested a way to find out precisely what every person's income is—without building up accounting machinery and detecting machinery that would cost more than it was worth. Until such a system is devised there is no use expecting that all persons in all classes can be equitably taxed on income.

The Fighting Nations

Forty-odd countries are to be represented at San Francisco when the charter of world security is being drafted. Not all of them have taken the field against the Axis powers. A dozen of them only declared war in a formal way within the last month, so they could gain admittance to the conference.

Not much in the way of cast iron regulations to bar aggression in future can be looked for from these late-comers. But perhaps they will prove to be more anxious to prevent future aggression than they were to stop Hitler and his pals. If so, that will be all to the good.

But the inference in advance is that the nations which have done the actual fighting will have to build the barricade against future war. And upon these will fall also the responsibility of seeing that, after the security pact is framed and ratified, it is given the steady and vigilant support which alone can make it the safeguard it should be.

—V—

The walking-out uniforms issued to Canadian soldiers a couple of years ago are being called in, and will become uniforms for the fighting men of liberated countries. Since the outfit was never very popular with the Canadian soldier he will no doubt part with it willingly—and turn it in not much worse for wear.

The threat of Jap invasion having passed, Washington is to abandon the Canol project. Assessors representing both countries will go over the ground and fix the sum at which Canada may buy the pipelines and other equipment if it so desires. The outcome will depend on whether there is a prospect of marketing the oil in peacetime at a profitable price. There is no compulsion on Ottawa to buy.

The Saskatchewan Government has abandoned the Hours of Work bill it put before the legislature. The bill would have reduced the working week from 48 to 44 hours two years after the end of the war, and to 40 hours four years later. Saskatchewan is mainly a farming province. That is the basic reason why the bill had to be abandoned. Short hours in town and long hours on the farm will not go together. That difficulty will have to be frankly met and solved if the shorter working week is to become a reality.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1895: 50 Years Ago

An order-in-council has been passed at Ottawa for the survey of the trails between Edmonton and Stony Plain, South Edmonton and Battle River by way of Hay Lakes, and between Fort Saskatchewan and Victoria.

A meeting of the Edmonton Agricultural Society was held in the Town hall on Saturday. It was suggested that the four societies, Edmonton, South Edmonton, Fort Saskatchewan and St. Albert, unite. It was decided to hold a spring show on Friday, April 19.

The Rev. Mr. D'Easum of Fort Saskatchewan, will preach in All Saints' church on Wednesday evening.

F. Kiel returned on Thursday's train from Vancouver.

As it now stands the hockey championship of this district is undecided, the Police team of the Fort, and the Thistles of Edmonton being tied for the honors. The game was only started here and at the Fort this year, and the boys have good reason to feel well satisfied with the way they are playing.

1905: 40 Years Ago

London.—Mukden has fallen, and immense stores of arms, ammunition and provisions, with great numbers of guns and thousands of prisoners are in the hands of the victorious Japanese.

St. Petersburg.—Trouble is evidently brewing between Russia and England. Thousands of troops and munitions of war, and latterly 56 military trains mostly carrying artillery, poured into Turkestan and made a demonstration against Afghanistan. A move against British India is expected.

The city council at last night's meeting decided to guarantee the Exhibition Association against loss on the summer fair to the amount of $5,000.

J. E. Bull, western manager of the Bell Telephone Co., is in town.

1915: 30 Years Ago

Ottawa.—Third reading was given to a bill empowering the CPR to separate its ocean steamship service from the parent company, the latter to guarantee the bonds of the former.

Washington.—Gen. Carranza has been informed by the government of the United States that unless there is an improvement in the treatment of foreigners and their property in the part of Mexico under his control, steps will be taken to provide the necessary safeguards.

The Pas.—Three thousand men are wanted for construction work on the Hudson Bay Railway.

1925: 20 Years Ago

The government majority in the Legislature voted down a motion supported by all opposition groups to reduce sessional indemnities and ministerial salaries.

Practically all British goods entering Canada come through Canadian ports, as a result of Mr. Fielding's concession of a 10 per cent. reduction in the tariff on goods coming "direct."

Halifax.—Premier Armstrong has appealed to the citizens of Glace Bay to man the mines there and prevent them being flooded. The miners are on strike.

1935: 10 Years Ago

The city council set aside $500,000 to meet direct relief costs during the year.

London.—The census bureau says Britain's birth rate is decreasing at a pace which in time would cause the population to decline.

Havana.—A state of war has been proclaimed throughout Cuba, because of anti-government strikes.

Berlin.—Herr Hitler has extended a new invitation to Sir John Simon to visit Berlin and talk over international questions. The Fuehrer last week summarily cancelled a former invitation, giving no reason.

Berlin.—Arrests, interference with church services, and steps to ban the synod opposing the pro-government church regime, are the Nazi answers to the synod's indictment of the Nazi attitude toward religion.

Strong and Stable France Is Essential to Europe

De Gaulle Has Overplayed A Weak Hand, Opinion Of Writer

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

General Charles de Gaulle, trying to win for France the position of a great power, has—temporarily we hope—gotten France into an impasse. This is very bad for France and for us. Under the chaotic conditions and almost insoluble problems of Europe, which will follow this war, France is essential for leadership and as a stabilizing factor.

Dorothy Thompson

Before this war there were three major countries in the traditional European complex: F Gran c.-em European complex: France, Germany, and Italy. With the smaller nations they were Europe. After this war, with Germany utterly destroyed and beyond redemption for decades, and with a wrecked and defeated Italy, reduced to a balkan level, the only remaining focus will be France. The economic, social, and political rehabilitation of France, is therefore primary to the rescue of European civilization itself.

There has been inadequate realization of this. Vast as are the demands of the military for shipping and materiel, one cannot help but feel that if there were sufficient comprehension of the condition into which Europe is sinking, the additional energy would be expended to put France back as rapidly as possible into working order.

It is dismaying to learn that factories, which under German occupation were employing thousands, are now employing only hundreds. What was a most unfortunate addition to the German war effort should, we would have thought, have been as great an asset to our own. Instead of this French industries are becoming a burden, with unemployment an additional burden, and the argument is made that there is lack of shipping for rehabilitation, when the organization of French resources could reduce the tonnage of military supplies that we must carry overseas. Since we have the military privilege of requisition it would seem advisable for our army to put some first-class industrial organizers in Paris, to help revive French economy behind our troops.

For France herself the problem of what sort of economic order to restore, apparently stalemates reconstruction. De Gaulle has rejected the plan of his minister of national economy, Pierre Mendes—France, for partial nationalization and state control of basic industries, though this would seem the quickest way to revive the economy. It will take years to disentangle questions of ownership resulting from the "legal" expropriations of the Germans, and the illegal acquisitions by the collaborationist. And the nationalization of basic industries has been a fundamental demand of the resistance movement from the beginning.

General de Gaulle has apparently felt that the postponement of this issue would contribute to national unity, and strengthen the bargaining power of France internationally. But disunity grows in every vacuum and the left-wing parties have begun openly to criticize their indispensable leader.

It was not unnatural for a patriot of de Gaulle's traditions to consider himself pre-eminently charged with restoring the power position of France. To an extent he succeeded in concentrating the attention of France and the world all but exclusively on this issue. But he has nevertheless been overplaying a weak hand, and Frenchmen—the reality of whose lives tell them that France is an exhausted nation, eminently in need of internal reconstruction before she can again become a great power—are realizing it.

Thus the communists who did not press for a more radical internal policy, deserted de Gaulle over his attitude toward Yalta and in doing so deserted him internally as well.

Furthermore, the alliance with Russia, which de Gaulle played out against the western powers, has failed for that purpose. Neither Britain nor the United States objected to changes suggested by France, in the text of the invitation to San Francisco which she was invited to sponsor. These changes, which would have made the Dumbarton Oaks proposals a "basis of discussion" but not a hard and fast program, were vetoed, I understand, in Moscow.

So if and when the French delegation appears next month in San Francisco, France, unless relations can speedily be improved, will not be in a bargaining position between the Big Three, but will have fallen between three stools.

As far as the Dumbarton Oaks proposals are concerned, if de Gaulle had chosen to make France the standard bearer of the small nations, that would have been a policy. But that has not been de Gaulle's aim. He has sought absolute equality as a great power, in what Dumbarton Oaks would make a great power world.

In politics no amount of theory, idealism, diplomacy nor amour-propre is a substitute for fact. All successful politics is the politics of realities. Already the real power situation in this world wears a maskless face, and in that situation the actual weakness of France is exposed. All lovers of French and European civilization regret this. But the regret does not change the inexorable facts.

A Canadian Looks at Paris

By J. A. M. COOK

PARIS—There are four prices for just about everything in Paris these days.

Top price is for the Americans—that's why we call them doughboys.

A shopkeeper doesn't feel quite so certain about asking a Britisher to pay top, since the British are not the highest paid troops in the world, have a reputation for striking a harder bargain. There are fewer of them in Paris. The French are more accustomed to them, feel that they do not belong to the window-smashing school of war.

But if you're a Canadian? Ah! Almost as if you'd come from Brittany or Normandy. They like you. The Americans go on calling you British and the British go on calling you colonial—but the shopkeeper and French people generally see a difference.

One Canadian army establishment provides a shopping service for men on leave, with attractive guides and interpreters, gets a 10 per cent discount in many shops, helps to wrap the package and mail it home to Canada. If you're Canadian and can speak even passable French, you get along better in this strange city than if you were British or American. Again, it may be partly because a Canadian is still a novelty.

At the bottom is the price reserved for the French themselves because, unless a citizen has been a collaborateur or a black marketeer, he just hasn't a big bundle of francs. He can't afford these atrocious prices. Value? Why a plain hat of very ordinary felt, not nearly as substantial as they used to hand out at the Swift Current rodeo, comes at 4,500 francs—nearly $100 in any language. This is the sort of guy who works in a factory or shop for about 10 or 15 francs an hour, and you just can't afford black market butter at $8 a pound if you're on an income such as that.

There are, of course, several kinds of French. Other than the ordinary citizen who is barely getting by with the help of a few bits of wood scraped in a public park, there's the kind with more francs than they know what to do with and, because they fear the government may grab large chunks of it, try to spend on almost anything. It isn't easy because it has now become a bit more difficult to deal in the black market. Before Christmas just about anyone on the boulevard would give you double value in francs for any loose British pounds or American dollars you had.

Now it is very very difficult to make a deal like that and people with foreign currency keep it well hidden. Then night clubs and many cafes have been closed since Christmas and troops do not eat in places other than their own messes, unless they get an invitation from a French citizen and even then they can't pay for the meal.

But the new rich can put money into the bourse, and CPR shares are selling at about twice the New York quotation, the only North American shares listed on the stock market today. It is one way of tucking away war profits.

They still don't know what will be done by the de Gaulle government about investigating holders of foreign shares.

One of the things you can do, providing you have enough coupons, is buy clothes. A rather plain tailored suit in a big store requires 91 coupons. They say women fight in some of the exclusive shops these mornings for a chance to buy hats that cost as much as 10,000 francs. The milliners wouldn't be turning them out if there weren't people to buy them. On the other hand there are thousands of girls with handkerchiefs and scarves on their heads.

The French put up a good front. On a rare occasion they entertain you and put out their best china and silver and probably parade their finest rabbit stew but they'll eat modestly themselves because there isn't enough to go around. Coming of spring is helping because the fuel situation is easier, but the food business improves slowly. Nearly half the children of pre-school age have signs of tuberculosis. The older people, the valiant who worked for the resistance in the woods, have suffered too, and the incidence of lung diseases is terrific.

Getting Latin-American Views

By B. T. RICHARDSON

WASHINGTON—The conference of American republics at Mexico City will likely produce a number of amendments to the world security plan drafted at Dumbarton Oaks, and they will be offered at the San Francisco conference with the support of many, if not all, the Latin-American countries. The views of these countries so far as they have been made known, have impressed officials of other smaller countries as reasonable and informed criticism of the plan worked out by the United States, Russia, Britain and China at Dumbarton Oaks. This reaction has to some extent outweighed the experience encountered with the so-called Latin-American bloc at recent international conferences.

At the same time, it is significant that the Pan-American countries speak with no "single voice" on Dumbarton Oaks or other issues. The absence of Argentine from Mexico City testifies to that.

The Mexico City meeting is an inter-American conference on problems of war and peace. It is purely a consultative meeting. An older American state department hope that the Conference of American States, known as the Pan-American Union, could be developed into a single-policy bloc has fallen by the wayside. Still the Pan-American Union has developed formal machinery as a consultative system, though it is not operating at present and it may suffer permanent alterations as a result of Argentina's defection.

One of the instruments of the Pan-American Union is the inter-American juridical committee, composed of five eminent jurists. This committee met at Rio de Janeiro last December to study the Dumbarton Oaks plan. Its report reveals the Latin-American countries have developed proposals which, in general, would restrict the absolute powers of the security council which the Dumbarton Oaks conference designed to be dominated by five big powers with permanent memberships. Equally, the Latin-American proposals would elevate the influence and prestige of the assembly, in which all countries will have equal votes.

The San Francisco conference, which will convert the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint into a living organization, cannot therefore be a cut-and-dried affair in which the smaller nations can be expected to approve and sign the scheme and then go home without saying a word. In view of the League of Nations' reputation, due to failure to apply the Covenant fully, as an upholder of the status quo, the Latin-American criticism of Dumbarton Oaks touches a basic weakness. The new world organization, so the inter-American juridical committee proposed, should set for itself a specific objective in "the adjustment of conditions that might lead to violence." It should "seek the promotion of justice in international relations." In brief, the plan must have provision for legal changes in the face of changing conditions.

The committee also suggested the new organization should assume genuine international character, rather than operate merely as an agent of sovereign states. Its chief duty should be to protect the international community, and the Latin-American jurists expressed the hope that the concept of an international community should become the living force of the new organization. It should have its own civil service, who would not be employees of states, but servants of the international community. Carrying this idea further, the committee suggested inclusion of an international bill of rights which would define the rights and privileges of an individual as a member of the international community, in contrast with his rights as a citizen of a sovereign state.

The committee wrote:

"The time has come when it must be formally proclaimed that the community of nations has rights in its own name, that it is not the mere agent of sovereign and independent states, but possesses a corporate character of its own, by virtue of which it may take action to protect the peace of the community and make provision for the public welfare."

Regarding the assembly, the committee proposed that its influence be increased, while recognizing the principle that it should not impede the council in preserving the peace. It should have initiative in admitting new members, leaving to the council the question of special provisions applying to an ex-enemy. In social and economic matters, the assembly should have authority beyond merely recommending proposals to various governments. Its resolutions should have force without ratification in each case by individual countries, though in cases where changes in international law are involved, the ratification by member-states is needed.

Though the security council, as the plan is drafted, will necessarily be beyond the control of the general assembly, the committee urged that:

"In due time, when the dangers still existing after the war are past and when the international community has developed a greater sense of moral unity, it may be found possible to make the general assembly the centre of responsibility in the international organization. Under such a system the security council would be converted into an executive committee of the general assembly, empowered to take action in cases of emergency, but otherwise acting in response to the declared will of the general assembly."

In brief, the assembly should in time become more than a consultative body and should assume the character of an international legislature.

Germany's Mood of Emptiness

From the Manchester Guardian

Germany has become nihilist. The Germans are fighting today for what they no longer believe in—a German victory. This great unbelief upon which their war effort is now founded is the key of the average German's mentality. He has lost his capacity for believing in anything.

There is a total rejection of moral principles, an utter lack of purpose, an indifference not only to the ordinary values of life but to the value of life itself. The mood may be described as one of abandonment rather than despair, and it is out of this almost fantastic abandon that Germany derives what strength she has today.

A nation poised upon what is virtually a vacuum may break down tomorrow or stand for six months or more. The break as a consequence of further military defeat will not be precipitated by political opposition, nor will it be backed by political ideas. It will be no more and no less than the collapse of a country into its own emptiness.

The lack of moral sense that originally characterized Government policy has seeped into the population. Conscience and even feeling are numbed. Most Germans are perfectly well aware of their country's war guilt and of their own guilt, too, but they lightly evade the issue, laying the fault exclusively upon their leaders. Some admit present responsibility but excuse it by reference to the "black shame of the Ruhr" and the "French guilt", as they call it, of 1922.

The masses who are prepared to accept tomorrow whatever may be imposed upon them are equally prepared today to work, suffer and fight for a victory they know to be an illusion. They do not desperately want to save Germany or the regime but think that of the two alternatives, to fight or to capitulate, the first is the better.

Flag "Incident" Stupid Mistake

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

The great "Union Jack versus Stars and Stripes" incident moved to its climax with the discovery that a great plot by the British to insult the United States national banner was probably nothing but the error of an enthusiastic Belgian, who didn't know the top of the Union Jack from the bottom.

It all started with the publication in the New York Times of a photograph showing the Union Jack flying above the Stars and Stripes on a flagpole in Antwerp, Belgium.

Angry letters poured in to the editor and the matter was duly called to the attention of the British Government. The British at first refused to believe that the Americans were seriously worried. When they discovered that the Americans were, in fact, as sore as a boil, they started to investigate.

The first thing they noticed was that the photograph showed the Jack flying upside down. Then, when the military authorities on the continent looked into the business, they discovered that the flagpole in question was located atop Antwerp's lone skyscraper, which is occupied by Belgian civilian offices.

"It seems certain," states the military investigator in his reply to London, "that the flags were hoisted by the Belgians."

As the British heaved a sigh and prepared to forget what seemed to them pretty petty business, anyway, in came the mail with the Dec. 30 issue of the Saturday Evening Post with bigger and fancier reproductions of the same photo all over its front page.

"Does this Union Jack flying high above the hard-won port of Antwerp show which way the wind is blowing in Belgium?" asks the caption meaningfully.

"I'll bite," was the reply of one British flyer. "Does it?"

The Germans Got a Surprise

From News of Norway

The city of Fredrikstad, located on the east shore of the Oslo fjord, on Thursday, January 8, witnessed one of the most amazing "kidnapping" affairs of the war. Fredrikstad at present probably is the busiest embarkation port used by the Germans in Norway. Ships are coming and going every day, taking German soldiers and loot out of the country, bringing ammunition and supplies in. Because of the narrowness of the harbor the Nazis had assembled ten tugboats there to take care of traffic.

On this particular day everything seemed to be going on as usual. Sturdy, powerful tugboats were buzzing back and forth towing larger barges and larger ships, and several German warships saw to it that the enemy did not interfere with the activities of the "master race." Then between 4 and 5 in the afternoon one by one the tugboats started out the shipping lane, some of them with several barges in tow. By the time the Germans closed the port entrance for the night all ten of them were out in the fjord. At the same time the salvage steamer "Uredd" left the city of Moss, further up the fjord, and another tugboat that had been busy all day towing targets for German warships training gun crews disappeared into the night. A few hours later all twelve ships turned up at a Swedish port.

The coup was carried out, according to the Swedish paper Aftonbladet, upon orders from Norwegian military authorities in Great Britain who had received word that the Germans were planning to transfer troops to the Continent in large barges towed by just these tugboats. Because of growing transportation difficulties some time will probably pass now before these German troops can be used against the American British and Russian forces on the West ern and Eastern fronts.

Armed members of the Norwegian underground boarded the ships, took over command and carried out the carefully laid plans. But it is still a secret—particularly to the Germans—how they managed to sneak past the guards and bring their Tommy guns and machine guns aboard.

Cost More

LONDON DAILY MAIL

The cost of employing women is greater than that of men for equal work.

This is the conclusion reached by the Corporation of Edinburgh, Scotland's capital (population 439,010), which employes 4,000 women.

The reason is that over a long period more women have to be employed on a job than men, according to the corporation.

Reveal How One Canadian Escaped Jap "Hell Ship"

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—The escape of three men, one a Canadian, from the sinking Japanese "hell ship" Lisbon Maru, was told yesterday by one of them, Lieut. James Fallace, a British naval officer, who has reached his home here.

Lieut. Fallace, a member of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve who was captured when Hong Kong fell to the Japanese in December, 1941, identified his Canadian companion as AB Evans but did not know his home town.

The naval officer said that last Sept. 25 about 2,000 officers and men of the Royal Navy and British Army were taken aboard the Lisbon Maru, a ship of 9,000 tons. Locked in the holds, they could only lie down by having their legs overlap. The majority of the men were suffering from varied diseases.

After a week at sea the ship was hit aft by a torpedo. Lieut. Fallace said the Japanese covered the hatches with tarpaulins and prepared to abandon the ship, leaving the prisoners to go down with the vessel.

Lieut. Fallace, however, and others succeeded in forcing the hatches and swimming to a rocky island about four miles away. With him were Evans and an Australian warrant officer.

Chinese guerillas helped them reach the China mainland and for two months the trio travelled with these fighters through five provinces. The last lap of the trip to safety was made by plane to Calcutta and they were chased part of the way by a Japanese fighter. At Calcutta the trio split. Fallace came home and he does not know the whereabouts of his comrades.

RCAF Not Selling Surplus Planes

OTTAWA, March 12.—(CP)—The RCAF Saturday made it clear that it is not in the business of selling surplus airplanes or other equipment no longer required by the air force.

In a press release the RCAF outlined the procedure laid down by the government for the disposal of all surplus war materials.

When an RCAF station is closed all public funds goods of whatever category, which are surplus to requirements, are first offered to the other services and then the remainder listed with this crown assets allocation committee, which decides how and when it should be disposed of in the best interests of Canada and Canadian business. When this has been decided the goods are turned over to the War Assets Corporation, a crown company, formed specifically to sell all surplus war property.

In order that business may be dislocated as little as possible the rule has been established that the War Assets Corporation will not sell on a retail basis, but will dispose of goods in bulk through recognized business channels. For instance, if the corporation has a quantity of typewriters or adding machines to sell, they will be disposed of through the firms that ordinarily handle this type of goods and will reach the public through the ordinary business outlets.

Young Group Capt. Is Given Command

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP) — Group Capt. R. S. (Bob) Turnbull, 26, multi-decorated bomber ace of Govan, Sask., and a lowly AC2 in 1940, will assume command March 15, of the RCAF operational training station at Boundary Bay near Vancouver, air force headquarters announced yesterday. Turnbull survived two tours of operations, did a high constructive job when operational rest came around and, with a second tour completed, had qualified as commander of a bombing station—all at the age of 25. He returned to Canada last month.

OTTAWA, March 12.—(CP)—The Prices Board announced today that a subsidy of one cent per pound on frozen eggs, begun in 1943 when a shortage was anticipated, will be discovered as from April 1 while an increase in the price ceiling on frozen eggs will be allowed to spread the subsidy loss more evenly over the industry.

PRIVATE BUCK—"Hokay, Senor Buck—MP, he'sa gone!"

McCoy Health Service

In the article yesterday I discussed some of the common causes of headache and promised to explain to you how to overcome this symptom. The first part of the procedure must be directed toward determining the cause. This may be best accomplished by means of a careful examination and during the examination, special study should be given to the gastro-intestinal tract.

It is usually a good plan to test the eyes to find out if the headache may be due to an uncorrected eye defect. If such a defect is found, the wearing of suitable lenses will often relieve the ache.

When the patient has a history of recurring attacks of biliousness, then the necessary attention should be given to the liver and gall bladder.

I find it necessary in my practice to make some inquiry into the emotional life of the patient troubled with frequent headaches. Often the headache seeming to arise from an obscure cause will be found to have an emotional basis. Family troubles, worry over money, and the various problems relating to marriage, may be capable of bringing on headache. Sympathetic inquiry, backed up by sound psychological advice, will usually clear up headaches of this type.

When headache seems to have a physical basis it is often advisable to make a determined effort to build up the general health. The systemic treatment should then be directed toward increasing the health as a whole. The patient should follow a written diet for several weeks, should be sure to obtain enough sleep and should learn how to use exercise so as to get the greatest good from it.

In banishing persistent headache brought on by constipation it is very important to secure a good intestinal elimination each day. If the colon does not cleanse itself naturally the enema may be used until the large intestine may be retrained to function normally. Constipation is one of the most frequent causes of headache, and with relief of this one condition, relief from headache follows almost automatically.

Inasmuch as many headaches are of toxic origin, the use of the fast is generally advisable and it is surprising how quickly a short fast of five days will remove a tendency to headaches. After the fast the patient will probably feel better than he has felt for years and if he will be careful about what he eats from then on, and will see that the colon does its work of eliminating waste materials, it is likely that headache will become a thing of the past.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Strike Ended

STELLARTON, N.S., March 12—(CP)—The three-day walkout of 1,300 coal miners in the Stellarton area was ended Saturday night when George White signed his union card to give the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) Stellarton Local 306 per cent membership in the area. The men walked out last Thursday in protest because White had refused to join the union.

"Happy Valley" of the Ruhr Is Devastated by RAF Raids

WITH THE RAF 2nd TACTICAL AIR FORCE IN BELGIUM, March 12.—(Reuters)—Four hundred and fifty square miles of the Ruhr—the "happy valley" of Bomber Command crews in their great assaults of 1943—are devastated beyond recognition, a staff officer of Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Harris' Bomber Command at 2nd Tactical Air Force headquarters said yesterday.

"We are quite certain that no town of any consequence and no major industrial works worth anything at all are now standing in this valley," he said.

The officer disclosed the following official figures of the devastation in the Ruhr:

Duisburg and Hamborn, the home of the vast August Thyssen steel works—more than 40 per cent. total destruction.

Mulheim—more than 64 per cent.; Oberhausen—42 per cent.; Essen, where the huge Krupp's works run straight through the centre of the town and built-up areas—more than 30 per cent. Gelsinkirchen—36 per cent.; Bocnum, centre of high-grade steel industry—83 per cent.; Dortmund—46 per cent.; Duesseldorf, 65 per cent.

Witness Describes Attack on Tokyo

The following eyewitness report on the Tokyo B29 raid was written by Martin Sheridan, Boston Globe correspondent.—EDITOR.

OVER TOKYO, March 12.—(AP)—I not only saw Tokyo burning furiously in many sections, but I smelled it.

The conflagration was so great that the bomb bay doors of this Superfortress, the underside of the fuselage and the gun blisters were blackened with soot.

This bomber was one of more than 300 from bases in the Marianas—forming the greatest fleet of superfortresses ever put in the air—which gave the Japanese capital the hotfoot early today.

Our navigator didn't need to give the pilot a bearing on Tokyo. Other bombers were ahead of us and 40 miles from the city we could see the reddish glow of fires.

Over the outskirts of Tokyo our plane tore through sombre clouds of smoke. The smoke smelled like the interior of a long-burnt building.

Suddenly there was an opening through the pall of clouds and there was Tokyo.

Plan By-Election In Saskatchewan

REGINA, March 12.—(CP)—A provincial by-election in Shellbrook constituency, west of Prince Albert, probably will be held early this summer, it was learned yesterday. The seat was left vacant by the death of A. V. Stirling, CCF member elected, who won it during the 1944 provincial general election but died before taking his place in the legislature. Liberal and CCF candidates are expected to contest the voting.

Hero of Day

ON THE RHINE BRIDGEHEAD, March 12—(AP)—A 34-year-old Ohio sergeant has been singled out as the man first across the Rhine in the daring establishment of the U.S. 1st Army's bridgehead. Brig. Gen. William M. Hoge, of Lexington, Mo., whose armored forces took the Remagen Bridge, named Sgt. Alexander A. Drabik, butcher boy of Holland, Ohio, as the outstanding hero of the day.

BBC Says Rommel Was Conspirator

LONDON, March 12—(AP)—The BBC said in a German language broadcast Saturday night that Marshal Erwin Rommel, "Hitler's favorite general", was one of the July conspirators against the Nazi leaders and would have asked the Allies for an armistice if the assassination plot had succeeded. The Germans Oct. 15 announced Rommel's death of wounds suffered in France on July 17.

Time Said Here For "New Order"

VATICAN CITY, March 12—(AP)—Pope Pius XII declared yesterday the time had come to contemplate a "new order of productive forces of the people" wherein the welfare of the community is placed above that of labor or capital.

The pontiff, in an audience given members of the Catholic workers' organizations meeting here, said that capital-labor accords which were confined merely to an agreement between the two parties were not a "stable principle of social order" because they might lead to exploration either of labor or of capital.

The pope said socialization was justified only when the "common welfare" really required it as an only means to repair the abuses or avoid the waste of a country's productive forces. Even then, he added, just socialization requires that all interested parties receive indemnities.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

OKAY, Moose Jaw, bring on your Canucks! Canadians made it official once more when they turned back the Calgary Avenue Grills 10-2 on Saturday night, and as has been customary for several years now, with the exception of 1944, it's Edmonton against Saskatchewan in the western semi-final.

Canadians were stopped by Saskatoon in 1943 after capturing their first Alberta title and then eliminating Trail. In 1944, however, Trail downed the Canadians and then went on to the Memorial Cup final. This year Canadians are Alberta's representatives for the third time in a row, but this time with no contender from British Columbia, the battle becomes a direct Saskatchewan-Alberta affair.

Calgary's last Alberta junior title was in 1936 and this marks the ninth successive season an Edmonton team has carried Alberta's banner in the playdowns. Junior squads from this city won in both '34 and '35, but prior to that Calgary had taken the honors each year commencing in '21 with the exception of '27 and '28 when Blairmore held the Alberta championship.

HERE AND THERE . . .

MOOSE JAW will be here for Thursday and Saturday with a third game providing points are divided in the first two. Canucks must have a good club, but so have Canadians and both have fine records. It should be a great series, but this corner is quite content to string along with the Canadians.

The new Alberta champions looked better Saturday night than in the first game against Calgary, and the Grills smartened up considerably in the last two periods, although the back-checking of the Canadians kept them hobbled most of the evening.

Seven Canadians shared in the goal scoring, although Cy Thomas topped the actual goal list with four. Cy also had an assist, bringing his points total for the two games to nine. John Rypien gathered up seven points, to boost him into first place for the final series with 12. Vince Bannon now has five, Don Campbell four, Eddie Thomas three, Jim Slugg and Bill Gadsby two, and Leo Sorsa, Jim Fleming and Ken Anderson one each.

Cy Thomas set up something in the way of a record for marksmanship in the third period when he hit both posts behind Ian Watson with the same shot. The puck bounced directly across to the left one after hitting the right post and came to a stop right on the goal line. Ian Watson, incidentally turned in another fine exhibition of goal-tending.

The Calgary boys lost no time in tendering their congrats to the new Alberta champs, immediately following the final whistle and they later attended the Canadians dressing room in a body for a repeat act.

Calgary Avenue Grills Drop Second 10-2; Cy Thomas Hits Net 4 Times

Canadians Alberta Junior Hockey Champs

Moose Jaw Plays Here On Thursday

CANADIAN ATHLETIC CLUB juniors possessed too much speed and fire power for the Calgary Avenue Grills and blasted the southern Alberta champions 10-2 for two straight in the best-of-three provincial hockey title series before 2,200 fans at the Arena on Saturday night. The Edmonton sextet took the first 10-1 on Thursday last.

The Canadians accordingly advanced into the western Memorial Cup semi-finals and will commence the best-of-seven playoff with Moose Jaw Canucks, Saskatchewan titlists here next Thursday. The second game has been set for Saturday.

Cy Thomas, flashy left winger, sifted through the Calgarians for a total of four goals and he set up another while John Rypien, right winger, scored twice and shared in five more. Vince Bannon, pivot for the same line netted two and helped in a pair, the other counters going to Eddie Thomas and Jim Slugg. Don Campbell had two assists and Bill Gadsby one.

Canadians held a three-goal lead before the game was five minutes old, Cy Thomas being the marksman each time. He back-handed the first past Goalie Ian Watson at 1:08, Rypien and Gadbsy combining with him in a three-way attack.

Seven seconds later Rypien weaved through and slipped a goal-mouth passed over to Cy for the second goal. Thomas back-handed a screened shot between Watson's legs to make the count 3-0 at 4:45.

Paul Preece got the second shot of the period at Goalie Don Murray just before the bell.

Calgary did much better after the breather, so far as territorial play went, but they had only one direct shot on Murray during the entire 20 minutes.

Canadians raised the score to 6-0 in the sandwich session. Rypien secured the first when he stickhanded the opposition dizzy and finished off the display with a sizzler at 10:09.

Cy Thomas registered his fourth at 12:47 following a three-way drive with Bannon and Rypien and Eddie Thomas tallied in the last minute from a parking spot in front of the Calgary net, being in the clear to receive the rubber from Don Campbell who had worked in from the corner.

Spencer, injured earlier in the period, had tough luck when he missed the post by inches after breaking through.

Rypien boosted the Canadian total to seven at 3:12 in the third beat, Bannon making the final pass.

Spence scored a nice goal for Calgary at 7:15 Gadsby of Canadians serving a penalty at the time. Paul Preece set up the play.

Bannon fired another for Canadians just past the half-way mark in the period, batted in Cy Thomas' rebound. Rypien also drew an assist, this being one of the prettiest goals of the night.

Nice North went through unassisted for Calgary's second marker at 11:45 and Bannon wound up the scoring when he took Rypien's pass at 13:29.

Bob English Bowls 1,108 To Capture City Men's Title

Bob English won the city men's championship with a score of 1,108 and Marion Graham took the ladies title with 942 as the annual tournament of the Edmonton Five-Pin Bowling Association tournament got under way at Recreation alleys on Saturday afternoon. Opening games in the other events of the tourney are scheduled for 6 o'clock today.

Included in the 1,108 compiled by the new city men's champion was a very fine single 405, the highest made in tournament play for several years. English's four games were 291, 189, 405, 223. Wyn Hall was runner-up in this event with 1,101 made up of 303, 310, 229, 259.

Marion Graham's four games were 265, 279, 154, 246 for 942, while May Smith was runner-up for the ladies title with 922, made up of 202, 212, 271, 237.

The entry list passed the 1,750 mark on Saturday. There is a big waiting list of bowlers who have been unable to get spotted and bowlers drawn during the week who may be unable to bowl are asked to notify the committee as far ahead as possible.

Red Deer Club Reaches North Juvenile Final

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Alta., March 12.—The 2nd 78th Battery beat Lacombe 7-4 at the Arena here on Saturday night to win the round in the provincial juvenile hockey playdowns and enter the Northern Alberta final against Edmonton Athletic Club. Saturday's game here was the sixth in a hard fought series between Red Deer and Lacombe, each having two wins and a tie before the deciding contest.

A large crowd with many fans from Lacombe saw the two well balanced teams perform. Red Deer took the lead in the first period by outscoring their opponents 4-2. The locals scored four times in succession in the first fourteen minutes of play. Then with Red Deer a man short the visitors rapped in two quick goals. Goodacre, flashy centreman for the battery raced through to score twice in the second period. Red Deer counted after seven minutes of play in the final period and Lacombe registered a pair in this session. The winners checked closely throughout and their passing plays gave them an edge on the play.

Currie Tames Mustangs 5-3 To Grab Lead in Playoff

CALGARY, March 12.—(CP)—Currie Army displayed some of the power which they showed during the regular schedule when they defeated RCAF Mustangs 5 to 3 here Saturday night, taking a one game lead in the best of three playoffs for the championship of the Alberta Service Senior Hockey League. First game last Wednesday resulted in a 2-2 deadlock. The third game will be played tonight.

The largest crowd of the season—4,515 paying patrons was entertained to a brilliant exhibition with the soldiers having a slight edge throughout.

The Max Bentley-Harry Black-Dunc Grant line was at its best, and accounted for four of the five goals. Bentley, ex-Chicago Black Hawk star secured two goals, while Black, Grant and George Boll got one each. Billy Maher (2) and Bob Brownridge tallied for the airmen. Army led 1-0 at the end of the first; held their slim margin at 2 to 1 at the end of the second and scored three more while holding their opponents to two in the third.

Canadian Army Stages 7 Title Bouts In Europe

NIJMEGEN, Holland, March 12.—(CP-Cable)—The 1st Canadian Army yesterday crowned seven boxing kings in the first championship matches it has held in Europe.

Three thousand Canadian and British soldiers jammed a hall in this Netherlands town just behind the front line.

One of the highlights of the finals was the heavyweight bout which saw Sgt. Charlie Shaw of The Pas, Man., from line of communications troops, win the decision over Tpr. Joe Main of Calgary, a member of the 4th Canadian armored division.

The two big westerners slugged it out toe to toe for most of the bout.

CAHA Meeting Set For Toronto

PORT ARTHUR, March 12—(CP)—President Frank Sargent of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced here Saturday that the 1945 meeting of the association will be held in Toronto, not Vancouver as originally scheduled. The switch follows a recommendation that the meeting be held in a more central part of Canada.

Mr. Sargent also announced that officers and members of the association executive have voted against a Manitoba suggestion that they remain in office until the end of the European war.

Calgary Midgets Win Both At Olds

CALGARY, March 12.—(CP)—The Calgary Buffaloes, winners of the city midget title here defeated Olds 10-3 and 16-2 in a two-game total point playoff series at Olds during the week-end.

No Curling

All draws at the Royal Curling Club for tonight have been cancelled, due to the mild weather.

Moose Jaw Girls Lead Cage Series

REGINA, March 12.—(CP)—Moose Jaw Dutch Maids defeated Regina Gems 34-29 Saturday night in the first of a two-game total-point series for the Southern Saskatchewan senior women's basketball championship.

After Dutch Maids took a 7-1 lead in the first quarter the teams battled on almost even terms.

Boston Takes Over 4th Spot By Turning Back Hawks 7-2

BOSTON, March 12.—(AP)—Breaking a six-game losing streak, Boston Bruins strengthened their National Hockey League play-off chances by overwhelming Chicago Black Hawks, 7-2, last night before a 12,000 crowd at the Boston Garden. The setback dropped the visitors out of their fourth-place deadlock with the Bruins.

Paul Bibeault, Bruins' regular goalie who let in nine pucks in Toronto Saturday night, turned over the net to rookie Harvey Bennett, who kicked out 25 of 27 shots.

The Bruins now lead the Hawks by two points and both have three more games to play, including the final of their 10-game season series in Chicago Thursday.

SUMMARY

First Period: 1—Boston, Cowley (Jennings, Egan) 3:49. 2—Boston, Gaudreault (Rozzini, Gladu) 13:27. 3—Chicago, Cooper 14:42. 4—Boston, Cowley (Cain) 17:47. Penalty—Field.

Third Period: 7—Boston, Egan 7:16. 8—Boston, Cain (Crawford) 9:11. 9—Boston, Egan (Cowley) 12:21. Penalties—none.

RANGERS ELIMINATED FROM LEAGUE RACE

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—Montreal Canadiens, travelling at a record-smashing pace, knocked New York completely out of the National Hockey League playoff picture last night by trouncing the last-place Rangers, 11-5, before 13,324 spectators.

The defeat made it impossible for Rangers, who have only one more game before the season ends, to overtake Boston Bruins.

SUMMARY

First Period: 1—Montreal, Blake (Lach) 1:56. 2—New York, Demarco (Goldup) 2:35. 3—Montreal, Hiller (O'Connor) 6:07. 4—Montreal, Richard (Lach) 11:27. 5—Montreal, Getliffe (Bouchard) 17:25. Penalties—Moe, Lamoureux.

TORONTO ENDS JINX BY WINNING AT DETROIT

DETROIT, Mich., March 12.(AP)—Centre Ted (Teeter) Kennedy's third period goal last night gave Toronto Maple Leafs their first National Hockey League victory of the season over Detroit Red Wings, 3-2, and their first win on Detroit ice since March 14, 1943. A crowd of 11,879 looked on as the Leafs spilled the jinx.

The win was the first over the Wings here by any other NHL club except Montreal in almost two years of regular season play.

SUMMARY

First Period: 1—Toronto, McCreedy (Metz) 8:06. 2—Toronto, Schriner (Carr) 15:05. 3—Detroit, Hollett (Armstrong) 18:54. Penalties—Schriner, M. Brunsteau.

MAPLE LEAFS HAND BRUINS 9-2 TRIMMING

TORONTO, March 12.—(CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs, wresting command from Boston Bruins midway through the second period of a National Hockey League game Saturday night, scored goals in clusters to record a 9-2 victory before 12,300 fans.

Ted Kennedy and Bob Davidson with two each, Babe Pratt, Mel Hill, Wally Stanowski, Sweeney Schriner and Gus Bodnar were the Leaf scorers while Paul Gladu and Armand Gaudreault tallied the two Bruin markers.

MONTREAL CINCHES LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

MONTREAL, March 12.—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens clinched their second straight National Hockey League championship Saturday night as they turned back New York Rangers 7-3 before a crowd of 12,000.

Little Buddy O'Connor paced the Montreal attack with three goals and an assist, the others coming from the sticks of Elmer Lach, Ray Getliffe, Dutch Hiller and Butch Bouchard. Ab DeMarco fired two for Rangers and Hank Goldup got the other on a major penalty shot.

Edmonton Army and Navy Pats Beat Calgary Wittichens 53-22

CALGARY, March 12.—Edmonton's Army and Navy Pats defeated Calgary Wittichens 53-22 here on Saturday night in the first game of a home-and-home total points series for the senior Alberta girls' basketball title. The second game will be played in Edmonton next Saturday night in the HMCS drill hall.

Etta Dann, former Edmonton Grad was high scorer with 10 points, while Connie Strachan, Laura Scott and Margaret Hembling all counted eight for the winners. Christiansen of Calgary team also scored eight points.

The Wittichens held the visiting Edmonton girls on even terms during the early part of the game and were trailing only three points at half time. The Pats however forged rapidly ahead in the third quarter as the result of a great display of passing and shooting to outscore the Calgarians 17-4, and then maintained the same pace in the final period, when they added 16 points as compared to three for Wittichens.

Edmonton led 13-10 at the end of the first quarter and both teams scored three points in the second to leave the count at the half 16-13.

The Pats played a strong defensive game in the last two quarters and the playing of Edith Skitch featured.

Fourteen fouls were called against Calgary and seven against Edmonton. Close to 700 saw the game.

Kay Strate Scores Three

Maple Leaf Midgets Win Northern Crown

Paced by Kay Strate with three goals and an assist, Edmonton Maple Leafs won the Northern Alberta midget hockey title Saturday afternoon when they overwhelmed Lacombe 12-3 at the Arena. The win, coupled with their 10-2 victory at Lacombe last Tuesday, gave the Leafs the best of three series in two straight games. The Bob Haxley coached club will now travel south for the provincial final.

Ken Watson, Stuart Robertson and Ron Phillips all tallied twice for the winners while Eddie Frey and Ray Thomson collected the other two markers. Norman Lund fired two goals to pace the Lacombe club while Fred Rusk tallied the third counter for the losers.

Ken Pendergast turned in a sensational performance in the Lacombe nets as he kicked out pucks from all angles, especially in the first period when he was practically unbeatable. He had no chance on the ones that got past him.

The Leafs took a slim 3-2 lead in the first period, but for a while in the second were only on even terms with the visitors as Rusk tied the count for Lacombe at 4:35. Ken Watson and Strate combined to put the winners ahead at 6:45, however, and after that the scoring was all Edmonton. The Leafs led 7-3 at the end of the second and then added five more in the last without reply.

LINEUPS

Three In Row

SUDBURY, Ont., March 12.—(CP)—Frood Open Pit captured the Northern Ontario hockey association senior championship for the third successive year here Saturday night by trouncing Porcupine all-stars 15-1 to sweep their best-of-seven series in four straight.

Haegg Finishes Fifth In Mile

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—James Rafferty, putting on his usual bicycle sprint, won his seventh straight indoor mile Saturday night at the Knights of Columbus meet, shunting Gunder Haegg of Sweden to fifth place in a six-man field.

It was a wild affair with Haegg the only man who did not lead at one stage during the 11-lap journey around the Madison Square Garden pine oval. The time was 4:16.3.

Don Burnham and Rudy Simms shared the lead the first two laps with Burnham out in front as they loafed through a 1:05.3 quarter. Then Forest Efaw of Oklahoma and ensign Tommy Quinn took over the pace setting duties.

Hawks' Mosienko Is Voted Winner Lady Byng Trophy

MONTREAL, March 12.—(CP)—By an almost-unanimous vote, Bill Mosienko has been awarded the Lady Byng trophy of the National Hockey League, to mark the third year in a row that Chicago Black Hawk players have taken the trophy for best combining sportmanship and playing ability.

Black Hawk players had the award clinched from the start, and if Mosienko hadn't taken it the trophy would have gone to linemate Clint Smith who wound up in second spot, ahead of Detroit's durable Syd Howe. Smith took the honors last year and Max Bentley of the Hawks was the winner the year before.

The wide margin of 14 points prevented Smith from becoming the first man since Frankie Boucher was in his prime to take the award three times, for Smith won it in 1938-39 when he placed for Rangers as well as last year. Boucher took the honors seven times in the eight-year period between 1927-28 and 1934-35.

Mosienko wound up with 95 points out of a possible 100. Smith had 81 and Howe finished with 75.

Buddy O'Connor of Canadiens and Bill Cowley of Boston finished in a tie for fourth spot with 62 points each, and—surprisingly enough for a one-time bad-man—Bucko MacDonald of Rangers was sixth with 48. Others to draw some support were Lorne Carr of Toronto, Ken Smith and Jack Crawford of Boston, and Mud Bruneteau and Joe Carveth of Detroit.

Galt Beaten 5-3

GALT, Ont., March 12.—(CP)—The lowly-rated Toronto Young Rangers pulled the upset of the junior OHA season here Saturday night when they defeated Galt Red Wings 5-3 to square their best-of-three series. Final game of the series will be played tonight here, with the winner meeting St. Michael's Majors in the best-of-seven finals.

Bruins Deadlock Port Arthur Final

PORT ARTHUR, March 12.—(CP)—Port Arthur HMCS Griffon defeated Port Arthur West End Bruins 5-3 here Saturday night to deadlock their best-of-five Thunder Bay junior hockey championship series at two game apiece. The Sailors won the opener 7-5 in overtime while West End Bruins took the next two games 5-3 and 9-4. Fifth game will be Monday.

Alf Baccari, Harold Smith, Louis Liiani and Allan Stanley and Eddie Siltanen scored for the Sailors. West End Bruins goalgetters were Ray Ceresino, Johnny Raynak and Steve Black.

Christianity as Yet Scarcely Tried Catholic Layman's Forum Is Told

Christianity has not failed the world for the simple reason that it has scarcely been tried on any extensive scale, Brother Ansbert, rector, St. Joseph's College, declared Sunday afternoon when addressed the opening session of the 1945 Catholic Laymen's Farum at the Ukrainian hall.

Bro. Ansbert pointed out that Christianity could be branded with failure, if having been guaranteed by its founder to be able to achieve certain definite results, it had been found wanting when put to the test. "But if Christianity is but imperfectly or incompletely applied to the task of reducing to order the confused issues of human existence, it cannot be blamed for the relative chaos which results," the speaker averred.

The rector offered the suggestion that if Christianity in its integrity were accepted by all men, and its principles applied by them in their efforts to solve the practical problems of life, peace and comparative happiness would be the result. "If Christianity were put in practice for one entire day by all men throughout the whole world, then for that day the woes which afflict mankind would in great part have ceased."

MAN'S FAILURE

Bro. Ansbert offered another point to back up his belief that Christianity had not failed, when he declared that man can be accused of failure because, on the whole, he has failed to respond to the appeal of Christianity. "The Christian philosophy of life, in its political and social aspects, was never given full and unhampered play in moulding the public life of the nations," he said. He pointed out, however, that what has been said in this regard of social groups, is not universally true of individuals. There were persons known as Saints, who have illustrated the annals of the church in all ages.

In other persons, the speaker explained, Christianity succeeds in a measure that correspondends exactly with the degree in which it is accepted. He warned that the life of a follower of Christ is bound to be filled with contradiction and inconsequence unless he is clearly aware of what Christianity is for, what it guarantees to do, and the promises it holds out.

Responsible for the woes that afflict humanity, he declared, are men who, whether they call themselves Christians or not, apply to the solutions of life's problems, principles that deviate from the principles taught by Christ.

Bro. Ansbert stated that defenders of Christianity, in the ardour of their defence, are prone to be drawn into a position dictated by their adversaries, and he cited this as another point in his argument.

Continuing, the rector affirmed that "it remains true that the sphere of activity in which the church's efficacy is to be tested, is not the sphere of economics. On the other hand, in that work which it properly belongs to Christianity to accomplish, no failure can attend its efforts . . . the Church undertakes to change men, not systems; if men become what they ought, systems will become what they ought".

CHRISTIANITY'S TASK

He summed up the task of Christianity in the two Commandments. "Thou shall love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, thy whole soul and with all thy mind and with all thy strength", and the second, "Thou shall love thy neighbor as thyself". He also cited the words "He that is not with Me is against Me. He that gathereth not with Me, scattereth".

Closing his address, Bro. Ansbert declared that "Christianity cannot fail for the simple reason that it was founded by Christ himself. It might be driven underground as it was in the days of the Catacombs, but we have the word of Christ himself that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

"We will be earnest and sincere and enthusiastic about our faith in the proportion that we know and appreciate it, and we will be lax and indifferent to the extent that we are ignorant of its teachings. If we live up to the teachings of Christ and His church, we will soon have ample proof that Christianity has not failed," the speaker said.

Well received by a large audience that comprised Catholic and non-Catholic residents of Edmonton and district, the address was followed by a discussion period.

The Forum will be continued for the next two Sundays. The March 18 meeting will bear Hon. Lucien Maynard, attorney general for Alberta, discuss "Canadian Unity." On March 25, "The Hope of the Future" will be the topic of an address by the Rev. Marianus, St. Josephat church. All the meetings are held at 3 p.m. at the Ukrainian hall, 9620 109 avenue.

61st (R) FIELD BATTERY RCA

Training in gun laying and gun drill is continuing each Wednesday evening with special classes on Tuesday night's for recruits. Members of the Battery who are attending these classes are showing the results of BSM Allenach's instruction in greatly improved gun drill.

On Wednesday night training films on Gas and Home Guard training were shown to the Battery by BSM Allenach. Both films were interesting and instructive.

Members of the Battery teams entered in the DCRA competition are practicing every Tuesday night and scores are gradually improving.

2nd BATTALION, THE LOYAL EDMONTON REGIMENT

CSM T. E. Booker has been assigned as instructor for "C" Company with headquarters at Fort Saskatchewan, replacing CSM I. B. T. Hopkins who was recently moved to Calgary. "C" Company has platoons located at Fort Saskatchewan, Ross Creek, Chipman and Lamont under the command of Maj. F. B. G. Heron. Platoon officers are Lt. J. R. Umbach, C. B. MacLeod and J. N. Calvert.

An interesting parade was held at the Prince of Wales Armory on Thursday night. After a brief period of drill, training films were shown. These consisted of demonstrations of the 3" mortar in action, with the universal carrier being used as a means of transporting the mortar and crew into action, carrier drill, and an infantry platoon in a flanking attack. At the conclusion of the film display, coffee and doughnuts were served to all personnel of the battalion.

2nd (R) Bn. EDMONTON FUSILIERS

The Fusiliers now have many efficient drivers for working with the various vehicles. Every D & M course at the Prince of Wales Armory is well attended and a good number of men have received their standing orders. L-Sgt. E. E. Cross, L-Cpl. G. D. LeBlanc, Boy K. J. Foll, Boy Gaunt, Fusiliers, V. A. Grenkie, Boy J. W. deBruign, Boy D. G. Meek, Boy R. K. Young, Fusilier A. Smith, Fusilier Rama and Boy Ireye are now attending.

Some members of the Fusiliers who attend parades regularly throughout the winter months are obliged to leave in the spring. These boys are indeed showing a true patriotic spirit in farming part of the year and training the rest. Fusiliers Schienbein and Ulmer are two who have just arranged to leave for the farm again.

$16,000,000 Credit Is Arranged by Norway

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—The Norwegian government-in-London announced last night that the Bank of Norway had arranged with 11 New York banks for $16,000,000 credit to facilitate financing of essential Norwegian industries and trade after the war.

Ask Gratuities For the Parents Of War Victims

That parents of service personnel killed on active duty be paid the gratuities that would have been paid such personnel had they returned to civil life is urged on the federal government in a resolution approved unanimously by South Side branch 150 of the Canadian Legion, BESL, at the monthly meeting Sunday.

Under existing regulations only those who have been in receipt of dependent's allowances, receive gratuities where death has occurred on active service.

Members of the South Side branch take the view that as the gratuity was actually earned by the dead serviceman it is naturally part of his estate.

Another resolution is in support of a move to have clear titles given all soldier settlers who still owe on purchases of land under the Soldier Settlers' Act of 1919.

30 PER CENT. OWING

It has been revealed that nearly 30 per cent. of the total purchase price for land farmed by these veterans of the First Great War is still owing. Most of the settlers are now past 60 years of age and many have gone through great hardships during the long depression years.

The branch also urged that the City of Edmonton continue operation of the bus line to the University hospital until 5 p.m. each day.

President A. H. Templeton was in the chair and there was a good turnout of members.

Appointment of three delegates to the annual provincial convention of the Legion to be held in Calgary in June, was put off until the next monthly meeting.

Ditch Is Plugged: Yard Is Flooded

The annual spring thaw may be a little premature, but unfriendly feelings between some neighbors in the city are not thawing, according to city police who Saturday afternoon were called to a 105 street district where one neighbor allegedly caused fast-flowing icy waters to back up into a neighbor's yard by plugging a ditch.

Remove Car Parts: Warned by Police

A number of persons, among them some adults, were warned by police about tampering with and removing parts of autos, trucks and a tractor, destroyed in a general-alarm fire last Thursday morning. Investigators were informed that considerable amount of removable parts of the motors had been taken during the last few days.

Insurance adjustors have not yet completed their investigations following the blaze that destroyed the premises of Albert's Auto Body Works, and in which motorized equipment of all types were lost.

With frontiers of 3,438 miles, Poland had only 87 miles of coastline before the war.

PTE. B. KNUTSON

BROTHERS IN UNIFORM.—Sgt. W. Carl Knutson, and his brother, Pte. Bennie Knutson, both of the Canadian Army, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Knutson of Clive. Sgt. Knutson, a paratrooper who trained with the First Canadian-American Special Service Force in the United States prior to seeing service overseas, has arrived home on rotation leave. He wears the American Bronze Star for action in the Aleutians, and four stars for major battles in the European theatre. He also wears two gold wound bars. Pte. Knutson is stationed at Petawawa, Ont., with an infantry unit.

Mayor of Vermilion 14 Times, Was Newsman in Edmonton, East Coast

VERMILION: Mayor J. W. G. Morrison might be termed a newspaperman who "saw the light" in time to leave a career of writing for a dead-line, and took to a career of public service.

Born in the county of Cape Breton, N.S., Mr. Morrison completed his preliminary education at the County Academy, N.S., taught school for a time and then turned to newspaper work.

He spent several years in Boston, Mass., as reporter and correspondent for Nova Scotian dailies, and then entered Dalhousie University at Halifax to graduate in arts, take his master's degree and in 1905, graduate in law. During his college course, he was associated with the Halifax Herald as staff correspondent.

Later, the future mayor returned to Sydney as city editor of the Daily Post and correspondent for the Associated Press and Canadian and Eastern American newspapers. In 1907 he came west and joined the editorial staff of the Edmonton Journal.

Forsaking newspaper work, he opened a law office in Vermilion and has been mayor of this town 14 times. In addition, he has been chairman of the school board for 10 years. Past president of the Union of Alberta Municipalities, he contested the Dominion riding of Battle River on several occasions but was unsuccessful.

The mayor is married to the former Miss Margaret Mackenzie of Dartmouth, N.S., the wedding taking place in 1921.

NASH rides the tide

The Tide that is bringing in a new era . . . in engineering, in styling, in convenience . . . for owners of motor cars . . . Nash is preparing to take that tide at the full.

You learned, before the war, to expect something superlative from those who gave you the "years ahead" Nash "600" . . .

You have a right to expect even greater things from a company whose war production has demonstrated how Nash can turn its hand to new things . . . take advantage of the new discoveries and materials that have revolutionized warfare.

Well . . . you will not be disappointed!

Using the experience and "know how" gained in its all-out wartime job . . . the fresh knowledge of materials and methods, the advance in engineering techniques . . . Nash is preparing to give you a New Nash "600" that will again be years ahead of any other in the low-price field . . .

Nash is preparing to give you also the finest, most luxurious, most economical car ever built in the medium price field . . . the new Nash Ambassador.

In other words, Nash is getting in position to ride the crest of the gathering tide that is bringing vast new possibilities to a postwar world.

. . . But until final Victory, we at Nash will continue our 100% production for War.

Veteran of Infantry, Air Service Returns Home on 30 Days Leave

Veteran of two services overseas in the present war, PO. Bob Slessor, RCAF, was one of a group of Canadian airmen, aircrew and "ground types", who reached the city Monday morning to start 30 days leave.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slessor of 9998 121 street, PO. Slessor received an unexpected surprise when he was greeted on his arrival by his sister, Wren Pat Slessor, WRCNS, on leave from HMCS Peregrine, Halifax.

JOINED ON OUTBREAK

PO. Slessor joined The Loyal Edmonton Regiment at the outbreak of war in 1939. Because of his age, he could not proceed overseas with the regiment, so he was sent to Currie Barracks, Calgary, where he served with a specialist company until proceeding to England in June, 1940, to rejoin his own regiment.

While overseas, he was granted permission to transfer to the RCAF and in June, 1942, he returned to Canada for air crew training. He went back overseas, this time with a blue uniform and air bomber's wings.

Since then he's plastered heavy British bombs on such Ruhr targets as Cologne, Essen and other places. He flew in Halifax heavies with 408 Squadron. "Compared with some of the other boys, we had a darned good tour," he said Monday. "We had a heck of a good skipper and he saved us a lot of grief. We had a number of scary do's but then you have that on every tour."

GOT THROUGH

The last trip was about the worst, PO. Slessor recalled. The aircraft was 15 minutes behind the other bombers on getting to the target due to the machine icing up. As a result the usual escort planes had gone. "But we got through alright," he said.

Also in Slessor's crew was Bob Bowhay of Three Hills, also home on leave. In England, PO. Slessor spent a couple of leaves with Jack Adams, former west end branch manager for The Edmonton Bulletin.

"Jack now has charge of a navy post office in London and is doing a pretty responsible job," he stated.

ARRIVES HOME.—FO. Donald Wilkes, RCAF, son of Mayor Thomas Wilkes and Mrs. Wilkes of Lacombe, who has returned home from overseas for the second time, after completing two operational tours. He flew as observer with a Mosquito squadron. He is married to the former Miss Ruth Kinna of Benalto, and a brother, FO. Reg. Wilkes is instructing with the RCAF overseas. Both received their education at Lacombe schools.

A member of the same squadron, FO. Hal Fefferman, son of Mrs. Annie Fefferman of 11405 100 avenue, also arrived home Monday. He was overseas a little less than two years, serving as air bomber with the Canadian Bomber Group.

He completed one tour, with the German Ruhr his principal target. "Things were very quiet," he remarked. The airman enlisted after spending three months at the University here. He also attended Scona High and King Edward public schools.

In FO. Fefferman's opinion, the war in Europe is good for another few months.

Glenora Club Gives $2,500 To Red Cross

A donation of $2,500 from Glenora Skating Club Monday had raised to $38,694.83 Edmonton's total donation to date to the Dominion-wide Red Cross campaign to raise $10,000,000 with which to carry on the work of that organization on behalf of the Canadians serving on war fronts all over the world.

In addition to this total, the district over the week-end, subscribed $9,162, making Northern Alberta's total $47,856.83. With no house-to-house canvass in Edmonton during the drive, campaign officials emphasized the need for citizens to make their donations either through their business firms or at donation headquarters in the Sterling Shoe Store, Jasper avenue.

In past years, canvassers discovered on calling at homes, the housewife would state that her husband was attending to the donation. At the office, the husband would state, in equally good faith, that "the missus is looking after it at home." The result was that while both parties sincerely believed they were correct, the Red Cross ended up holding an empty bag. To avoid any such error, and for other reasons, house calls were ruled out in this current drive.

During the week-end, donations of $100 or more were made by Dr T. H. Field, Alan D. McTavish, the New Edmonton Hotel, Kiwanis Club, Nash and Nash, and Patriquin and Johnstone. Two city junk firms donated a total of $65 and a dozen Edmonton doctors turned in $535.

The Northern Alberta campaign, aimed at no set objective, will continue until March 31. The provincial quota has been set at $400,000.

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

Peter Prelez, 8011 101 avenue, was unable to catch a youth who rode away on his horse, Sunday afternoon, the owner informed city police. The animal was observed taken by the boy from Prelez's yard.

A 16-year-old North Edmonton youth, ordered to leave the North Edmonton skating rink after an argument, Saturday, allegedly pulled out a knife and threatened to stab the caretaker, according to city police. The youth was visited by officers, who gave him a warning.

The North Edmonton Community League is sponsoring the showing of a film entitled "Tundra" in the St. Francis hall at North Edmonton on Tuesday. There will be one show at 4 p.m. and a repeat performance at 8 p.m.

The Edmonton Civic Employees' War Charities Community Chest at a recent meeting voted $8,000 for the Canadian Red Cross. This brings to $8,500 the amount already subscribed to the Red Cross this year, it was announced Monday by John Pollock, secretary treasurer of the Civic Employees' Community Chest.

Returning to the parked car in which she left her purse while attending a show, Saturday, she discovered that the back window of the coupe had been broken and her bag stolen, Gotta Like, 13139 Fort Road, reported to city police. The auto was parked at 109 street and Whyte avenue at the time, it was stated.

Alberta Bonds Rise in Price

Prices of Alberta bonds rose steadily on the New York and Toronto stock exchanges as possibilities of refunding of the bonded debt of this province seemed imminent. The price increase ranged about three points.

In the New York market Alberta bonds were selling from 101 to par, and on the Toronto exchange at from 98 to par. Sales of the bonds were brisk, but supply was considerably short of demand, it was reported.

The advance in Alberta bonds has been steady since the beginning of 1945.

Birthday Party Ends in Fight

Two men were injured after an argument that started during a birthday celebration, early Sunday morning, while a third man will be charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm, according to city police.

The injured men are Mike Zukiwiski, 13315 64 street, who was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital where four stitches were used to close a wound in his head, and John Godley, 10313 95 street, who received cuts about the nose and forehead.

The accused man, Mike Hycroy of Richmond, appeared before Magistrate L. R. Jackson in city police court Monday morning. The case was adjourned until Thursday.

Purse Snatched

Snatching her purse as she was walking between 100 and 99 avenues on 105 street, about 11:25 p.m. Saturday, two youths made a rapid get-away in the darkness, Miss Mary Daichuk, 9561 106 street, told city police. The bag contained about $7 in cash, some papers and national registration certificate, she said.

$20,000 Stamps Sold at Auction

Approximately $20,000 worth of war savings stamps were sold during the "block buster bundle auction" conducted Saturday evening over both Edmonton radio stations, by the Commercial Travellers of Edmonton on behalf of the Food Industries Stamp Drive, it was announced Monday.

Final figures were not available since a number of citizens had made false bids for various articles on auction, refusing later to make good the amount of money they had pledged. The highest bids of the evening were those of $1,500 received from W. E. Bill Hamilton, and $1,000 from Thomas Dark. The "special bundle," a registered wire-haired pup, sold for $200.

Veteran Declares:

Lack of Air Cover To Beat Nazi Armies

Lack of air cover will spell the early defeat of the German armies in Western Europe, in the opinion of Sigmn. C. R. Christie of Edson, an original member of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, who returned here Sunday on rotation leave after more than five years of service overseas.

PROMOTED.—R. D. Campbell of Toronto, who has been appointed assistant Canadian general manager of The F. W. Woolworth Co. Limited. Starting with the firm in 1916, Mr. Campbell has held positions as store manager, superintendent, buyer and latterly has been the merchandising supervisor for the company. He is a frequent visitor to Edmonton.

"The Nazis have practically no air cover and they lack other weapons. They are using more and more rockets and robot bombs on the western front in an attempt to make up for the lack of real air power. One hardly ever sees a German plane over the front these days," Christie said. Robombs do little military damage in the fighting areas, the soldier said.

Sigmn. Christie was in a group of Canadian Army personnel who arrived here Sunday from Calgary. He left the Canadian front in Holland on Feb. 12 last.

BIG PUSH STARTING

"The big push to drive the Germans back across the Rhine was just starting when I left. The boys all seemed confident the European war would soon be over," the Edson man stated.

Cpl. J. N. Johnson, son of Mrs. M. Johnson, Suite 6, Kingsway Apts., was another member of the group returning Sunday who has been overseas with the Loyal Edmonton Regiment for more than five years.

Before being whisked away by excited relatives he told reporters that the men of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment are in great fettle despite their hard period of service in Sicily and Italy.

When asked what he missed most during his long service overseas, Cpl. Johnson laughingly replied:

"It wasn't what I missed that counted. It was what missed me that was important."

Spr. D. L. Matheson, 9515 110A avenue, who was wounded in Holland after five years of service overseas with the Royal Canadian Engineers, was another Edmontonian looking at Jasper avenue for the first time since April, 1940.

HONORS SHARED

The Loyal Edmonton Regiment shares honors with the famed Twenty-Second Regiment of Montreal as tops among Canadian regiments serving overseas, Pte. P. Labelle of Thorhild said.

Twice wounded while serving in Belgium and Holland with the Fusiliers of Montreal, Pte. Labelle says that French-Canadian units have "really gone to town" in the fighting in Western Europe.

Last wounded on Nov. 16, Labelle had fought over ground near Arnheim littered with the bodies of British and American paratroopers after the great fight of the sky troopers to capture the city.

Civilians in Normandy, Belgium and Holland were "simply wonderful to us, helping us in every way they could," one of the returning veterans said.

Sigmn. Christie, also a former bandsman, said that service in the cold, penetrating weather of Western Europe makes a cold day in Canada feel actually balmy.

DON'T FEEL COLD

"All the boys remarked during a cold day on the trip back that the weather over in Europe must have done something to our blood. We don't feel the Canadian cold any more," the Edson soldier said.

The returning veterans were again met by relatives, representatives of the Canadian Red Cross with cigarettes and chocolate bars, Legion officials and representatives of women's regimental auxilities and Salvation Army Hostel officers.

Woman Injured in Street Accident

Miss Ivy Saunders, 11635 88 street, was admitted to the General hospital, and later transferred to the Royal Alexandra hospital, suffering head and back injuries received in a traffic mishap about 10:35 p.m. Sunday, according to city police.

Driver of the auto was said by police to be Roy Sandquist, 10508 74 avenue, who informed police that a group of people started toward the street car tracks as he approached. In trying to avoid an accident, Miss Saunders was knocked to the pavement.

Laurane Fredericks, 11627 88 street, said she was with Miss Saunders at the time. There was no street light on at the intersection, she said.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

What do you like best about this season or the year?

THE ANSWERS

GERRY MacINTOSH, student: "I like the longer twilights and half frozen slush underfoot that you can slog along through and realize that it isn't going to last much longer. It's a pretty good feeling at this time of year to know that even if we do have a little cold weather it can't last very long."

* * *

MRS. H. ASHFORD, housewife: "Once spring is in the air I get very impatient waiting for the day when I can first get out in my garden and grub around in the earth. I don't think there's anything to compare with the fresh clean smell of everything and the warm sun just seems to penetrate right to the marrow of your bones. I really don't think there's anything like the spring sunshine."

* * *

JOHN MILLER, mechanic: "I'm just thankful that winter is past. I'm getting to the point where the winters are too rugged and I'm really glad to see the lengthening days and feel the old sun getting warmer. The thing I like best about spring is that each year I get filled with zeal for all the things I intend doing in the summer—half of which I never get around to. But it's a good feeling just the same."

Store Entered

City police were checking, Monday, into the unlawful entry of the Charles Podersky meat market, 104 street and 101 avenue, over the week-end. Entry was made by means of a rear window.

PRIVATE BREGER ABROAD—"Mrs. Stone, will you kindly inform him how one takes gas?"

REPORTED MISSING.—Flt. Lt. V. R. Glover, DFC, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Glover, 10705 98 street, who has been reported missing on active service with the RCAF overseas after operations on March 6. He was serving with the Owl squadron, receiving his award for returning his aircraft to base after it had been severely shot up by enemy fire. A brother, Lt. Mervin Glover, is serving with the Canadian Army overseas, holds the Efficiency Medal for meritorious service while in the ranks.

Welfare Worker, Mrs. W. Diamond, Dies: 73 Years

A tireless worker for community welfare and an outstanding figure in Jewish affairs in Edmonton, Mrs. William Diamond, long time resident of this city died in hospital Monday morning after a brief illness. She was 73 years old.

During the last war, Mrs. Diamond was active in Red Cross affairs and even during the present war she gave unselfishly of her time and energy to assist with Red Cross sewing and knitting.

She was one of the founders of the Daughters of Zion in Edmonton and was its first president.

FIRST PRESIDENT

The Daughters of Zion, which later became the Hadassah Organization, was founded in Edmonton largely through the efforts of Mrs. Diamond and she became the group's first president.

She was a life-long member of the Council of Jewish Women and was an active worker in the ladies' aid.

Born in Russia, Mrs. Diamond went to New York as a young girl where she was married and came west to Calgary with her husband in 1892. In 1906 they came to Edmonton where they have lived ever since.

Mr. Diamond retired six years ago after an active life in the city's business activities as a clothier. He survives his wife.

Surviving are her husband; one daughter, Mrs. David Griesdorf of Vancouver; two grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Rush of New York.

A funeral service will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. from the family residence, 9924 107 street. Rabbi Abraham Postone will officiate and burial will be in the Edmonton Jewish cemetery.

Implement Men Gather in City

More than 100 dealers from all parts of Northern Alberta will attend a meeting to be held at the Macdonald hotel on Tuesday, E. F. Carter, Brantford, Canadian sales manager, Cockshutt Plow Co. Ltd., stated on his arrival here Monday.

He is accompanied by Norman Moore, director of public relations for the company, and R. T. Welsh, Calgary, western sales supervisor. They will confer with Edmonton officials.

Rationing of farm machinery and parts will continue for some time, Mr. Moore stated.

Name War Veteran As Agriculturist

Gordon R. Sterling, a RCAF veteran of the present war, has been appointed district agriculturist at Bentley, succeeding A. W. Lampitt, who has resigned, it was announced Monday by Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture.

Mr. Sterling, a 1941 graduate in agriculture from the University of Alberta, already has taken up his new duties. He was in the air force from 1941 until his recent release. He is a resident of Westlock district.

Mr. Lampitt retired in order to take up farming. Mr. MacMillan stated in announcing the appointment of his successor.

Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price, DSO, DCM, late overseas commissioner for the Canadian Red Cross Society, will be speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Edmonton Red Cross branch at the Macdonald hotel Tuesday at 12:15 noon. The address is expected to be of particular interest to all those associated with the current Red Cross campaign.

Debate of Premier Ernest Manning's 1945-46 provincial budget will begin in the Legislature Monday afternoon, when J. Percy Page (Ind.-Edmonton), opposition leader, will speak. It is expected Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs and trade and industry, also will speak Monday.

The budget debate will continue all week, with night sittings planned for Tuesday and probably Thursday. The government intends to have the debate concluded Friday, in an effort to have the present session ended by Thursday, March 29.

Former Batman Says McNaughton Proved Best Boss In the World

General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's minister of national defence and former commander of the Canadian Army overseas, may be having his troubles politically but he was the best "boss" in the world, according to Cpl. Ken R. Mattison-Mansfield, 9922 86 avenue, and surely he ought to know. He was batman to General McNaughton for four years.

The corporal arrived back in Edmonton Sunday night with other long service Canadian Army personnel home on rotation leave.

The Edmontonian enlisted in The Loyal Edmonton in 1939 and was selected as batman for the Canadian Army commander before he left Canada.

WAS CONSIDERATE

Of General McNaughton, the soldier said:

"He was the best employer a man could possibly have. He was most considerate and thoughtful of others at all times. He rated 100 per cent with the men of the Canadian Army and we were all sorry to see him leave although that should not be considered as being anything against his successor who is also highly thought of".

The Corporal went through the fighting in Normandy, Belgium and Holland. He was born in England.

Sgt. B. Olson, 11224 99 avenue, an original with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment and pay sergeant with the Army in Western Europe also with the returning servicemen.

"Getting used to the brogue of the Canadian girls seems the most difficult thing in Canada so far. They sound funny", he said.

Spr. G. Bowen, 9233 103A avenue, who enlisted with the Royal Canadian Engineers in May, 1940, and Pte. Alfred Kisilewich, Innisfree, who served with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment in Italy and was wounded near Cassino, were also among the returnees.

WOUNDED AT RAVINA

Pte. R. L. Knight, Bluffton, was for a time with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment but went to the New Westminster Rgt. in Italy and was wounded in Ravina.

Pte. R. Schriber, Winfield, served with the PPCLI Regiment and was wounded during the assault on the Gothic line.

Cpl. Frank Kastelman of Cudworth, Sask., was another returnee.

All praised Canadian medical and hospital services overseas and were also thrilled by their warm welcome home. A band met their train at Calgary Sunday morning.

A decree absolute of divorce was granted in supreme court Monday by Mr. Justice Hugh John Macdonald to Roland Talbot from Edna M. Talbot.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Mercenary Wife Most Unreasonable; Silly

Allowance and Nice Home Fails to Satisfy Undeserving Woman; She Should be Made to Get Out and Work Awhile

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband has paid a government income tax this year of over $3,500. I don't know how much money he makes. He says he doesn't know and that it may turn out that he hasn't made anything this year. Does this make sense?

He pays all of our household bills and expenses, but all that he has given me for spending money a year is a little over $1,000. He is so mean and stingy that he won't spend money even on himself. Says he has to leave the money in his business to keep it going. I have a small separate income of my own which was left me by my father ten years ago. I have never spent a cent of this and don't see why I should.

If I should get a divorce from my husband, would the court compel him to take money out of his business and pay me a sensible income? Could I get a divorce on the grounds of non-support? We get along fine except for the money question.

DISGUSTED

ANSWER: I would think your husband would be the one to be disgusted in a marriage like yours, for you seem to regard him as nothing but a meal ticket, and it must be pretty discouraging to a man to work hard to support a wife who has no interest in him except for the money he brings in.

Evidently you know little of business if you are not aware that in these war times, when everything is so uncertain and taxes are so high, that no man really does know just how he stands financially, nor whether he has made any profit or not on his year's work. Also you would know, if you had ever been in business, that a man can't turn over every cent he makes to a greedy wife. He has to plow it back into the business if he would keep it a going concern.

So, inasmuch as you are only interested in what your husband makes, I think you would be very silly to divorce him. In the first place, you will have to find a better excuse than non-support for getting a divorce from a man who supports you in comfort and gives you a $1,000 allowance for spending money. And, in the second place, you would find it a hard task to get another husband who wouldn't think that you should spend some of your own income on yourself, instead of holding him for more.

MISTAKE

DEAR MISS DIX: Our son married a girl after knowing her a very short time. The marriage was a great mistake and they have never known any happiness together. He is now overseas and, knowing that they can never suit each other, he has asked her to divorce him, but she refuses. Says she knows he still loves her and insists on our doing something about the situation. He is nearly 30 years old and we can hardly tell him what to do. We think she would be much happier away from him than she could possibly be with him if she forces him to live with her.

Just what do you think we should do?

VERY WORRIED PARENTS

ANSWER: Keep your hands out of the mess. Parents have no right to meddle with their children's marriages. It is the affair of the individual husband and wife and they should settle it. Certainly you have no right to bring pressure to bear on your son to make him live with a wife whom he no longer loves and with whom he cannot get along in peace. And the wife is foolish to hang on to him when he is so anxious to be rid of her. For no woman is in a more miserable position than that of an unloved wife.

I should think the best thing to do would be to tell your son's wife that you will take no part whatever in settling the dispute, and tell him to just drop all thoughts of divorce until the war is over. Time settles most of our problems if we will only have the patience to give it a chance. She may get tired of waiting, or even fall in love with some other man.

BACHELOR

DEAR MISS DIX: How old should a man be before he is an old bachelor? How old should a girl be before she starts dating? How long should a girl go with a boy before permitting him to kiss her? Is a girl of 16 too young for a boy of 21? THREE BOYS

ANSWER: Any unmarried man is a bachelor, but no one would be called an old bachelor before he was 50. A girl should be 15 or 16 before she starts dating. No definite date can be set for the first kiss, but the longer a girl puts it off, the better it is for her.

A girl of 16 is not too young to go around with a boy of 21, but she is too young to marry anybody, or have a serious love affair.

Minute Make-Ups

Give yourself a mask treatment at least once a week. Lock the door, if need be, and give yourself time to obtain results. Use a good, rich tissue cream at least once every day. If your skin is dry, use a warmed oil application twice a week. Put your shoulders in good condition. Scrub the skin well with a creamy soap lather, using a small complexion brush. Rinse off the soapy lather. Now sponge well with a mild astringent lotion. Blot dry with cosmetic tissues.

Debunker

Scalping was unknown to the Indians till white men came and taught it to them. It was a European idea, which had been practised in the holy crusades and many wars. During the crusades, scalps were brought home and baptized. The American Indians were used as allies of both the French and British in wars against the American colonists, and the practice of scalping was taught to the Indians by these European soldiers, so that the Indians could be rewarded for their services on the basis of the number of men killed and scalps brought in. The scalp did not include the whole head of hair but merely a section from the top, often no larger than a couple of inches in diameter. Scalping did not necessarily mean death to the victim.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Son: "See, I'm hitting Bill in this picture."

Mother: "Why do you want to hit Bill? Can you draw a picture about that?"

Son: "This is a picture of me slapping Billie."

Mother: "You're a bad boy to draw that picture. Tear it up and draw one of you loving him."

Better allow a child to relieve his feelings through drawing or talking than force him to repress antagonisms only to vent them later in some more harmful way.

THESE WOMEN—"Well, yes, Mrs. Bell, you SHOULD bring him in every six months, but you'd better wait until he gets some TEETH!"

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The mother-to-be is certain to think of her coming baby as being an extension of herself. She feels as if he will belong to her and that she will have the personal right to dress him, play with him, feed him and educate him as if he were not a person, in his own right, but an alive doll.

For the first year of baby's life she is apt to have an unhampered opportunity to carry out her ideas. But, from the moment the child enters the second year and begins to move about under his own power, he challenges her right to treat him as if he belonged to her.

How can a mother decide when she is being respectful of the child's right to grow into an independent personality, and when she is carrying out her own desires to make him into a personality pleasing to herself?

Let her ask herself:

Does she feel offended and hurt when the child fails to mind her instantly, even if what she demanded wasn't entirely necessary?

Does she recognize the developmental nature of a child's play and think twice before she disrupts it when he is seriously engaged in some interest of his own?

Does she insist that a child eat everything set before him, disregarding his own likes and dislikes?

Does she give the child an opportunity to make choices of conduct in order that he may develop his judgment by noting what happens, when he does?

Does she show him that she loves him the way he is, or does she refuse to love him when he is bad?

Does she use the child as an emotional outlet for her own starved affections or as a means of making up to her for the disappointments of her married life?

The above are just a few of the many ways in which a mother reflects her belief that her child came into the world particularly to be an enjoyment and satisfaction to her own ego.

The fact that she may feel that what she does is good for the child does not excuse her when what she is doing tends to suffocate or ignore the development of the child's own personality.

All mothers tend to be possessive unless they make themselves see that their children are no longer parts of themselves but independent human beings with the rights and privileges to which this estate entitles them.

Children can never grow into happy and full-statured individuals without the education in independent thinking and acting which only their mothers can give them.

Our leaflet, "Training for Independence," mentions some of a child's dependent habits and ways to end them. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

War Kitchen

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

Sausage Spoon Bread
(Serves 6)

One cup cornmeal, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 cups milk scalded, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, separated, ½ pound sausage meat, cooked.

Mix cornmeal and salt; stir into hot milk. Cook over hot water until thick and smooth, stirring occasionally. Cool slightly. Beat egg yolks well; add to cornmeal mixture with baking powder. Beat egg whites stiff; fold in. Pour into greased casserole; sprinkle with well-drained sausage meat. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 40 minutes or until firm. Serve from baking dish.

Fluffy Egg Ramekins
(Serves 4)

Two tablespoons fat or drippings, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons minced green pepper, 2 cups crisp rice cereal, 4 eggs, salt and pepper.

Melt fat or drippings; add onion and green pepper. Brown lightly; mix with rice cereal. Divide cereal mixture into 4 greased individual ramekins or large custard cups. Break eggs carefully, keeping yolks whole, and separate. Beat whites stiff; add salt and pepper. Pile egg whites in baking dishes on cereal, making well in center of each. Put an egg yolk in center of each dish on whites. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until yolks are as firm as desired. Serve immediately.

Tomorrow's Menu

LUNCH—Fluffy egg ramekins, whole wheat bread, butter, sliced oranges and bananas, peanut cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER—Steamed frankfurters, mustard sauce, mashed potatoes, 7-minute buttered cabbage, rye bread, butter, baked apples, cup cakes, coffee, milk.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Most Americans get from two-fifths to one-half of their calories from white flour and sugar. These two highly nutritious foods are free from or relatively poor in vitamins, particularly vitamin B-1 (thiamine).

Still some who think they know what they're talking about iterate and reiterate that people who are able to select and enjoy a "well balanced" diet including a liberal variety of fresh fruits, vegetables, milk, eggs, meat etc., get plenty of vitamins in their food.

This glib assurance is based largely upon the widely published dictum of the head barker for the best advertised "cline" that—

"The medical profession would probably do well to point out to worried dietitian and mothers of families that disease which can be definitely ascribed to avitaminosis (lack of vitamins) is very rarley seen among American adults of the middle and upper classes."

The mouthpiece of the best advertised clinic, having conceived and given birth to that dictum without benefit of scientific investigation, endeavored to make it unanimous by adding this modest confession of diagnostic ineptitude:

"Even the physician with a very large practice will see only a few cases a year in which he will suspect that the symptoms are due to too great a narrowing of a diet."

It is only fair to mention here that the loquacious one went overboard on this seven or eight years ago, and no doubt has learned better since).

This easy assumption that vitamin deficiency is rare in this country is based upon the ignorance of medical "authorities" and the rank and file of the medical profession—ignorance which was perhaps excusable eight or ten years ago, since the newer knowledge of the function of vitamins in nutrition had not then got into medical textbooks.

It is indeed true that the severer degrees of vitamin deficiency disease such as beriberi (Singhalese term meaning extreme weakness) due to prolonged deprivation of vitamin B-1 (thiamine) is not common here, but mild and usually unrecognized beri beri is so widely prevalent as a health impairment by itself or a serious complication of various chronic diseases, that the practitioner who fails to keep it in mind in everyday practice is just ten or twenty years behind the times.

The "clinic" trumpeter took pains to impress upon the prospects that he referred exclusively to middle and upper class people. I belong to the other class and I wouldn't know how middle and upper class people live or what their favorite ailments may be aside from coronary thrombosis, apoplexy, alcoholism and, when other dodges fail, neurasthenia.

However it is safe to estimate — and I challenge physicians to controvert this estimate — that there are today at least half a million cases of mild rickets in growing youths and young adults and at least a hundred thousand cases of mild scurvy in mature adults in the continental United States, that escape recognition if the patients come under medical observation at all.

Red Cross Reaches Quarter of Goal

TORONTO, March 12. — (CP) — Officials of the Canadian Red Cross society announced Saturday one-quarter of the national objective has been reached in the society's appeal for $10,000,000. At the end of the fifth canvassing day the national total stood at $2,482,193, as compared with $1,823,545, or 13 per cent during the same period last year.

First province to pass its objective is Prince Edward Island which reached $70,151 or 140 per cent of its $50,000 quota.

Manitoba and British Columbia are in second and third positions for leadership in attaining their quotas, Manitoba reporting $340,000 or 57 per cent of its $600,000 objective and British Columbia totalling $309,102 or 39 per cent of its $800,000 quota.

Other provincial totals with objectives and percentages bracketed include: Ontario ($5,000,000) $903,900 (18); Saskatchewan ($350,000) $79,000 (23); Alberta ($400,000) $100,000 (25).

Coldwell Supports "Verdict" of CCF

OTTAWA, March 12.—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, said last night he was in "complete accord" with the action of a Winnipeg meeting of Manitoba party delegates which suspended two CCF members of the Manitoba legislature for recent statements they made in the house.

Commenting on the suspension of B. R. Richards of The Pas and Dr. D. L. Johnson of Brandon for their critical attitude toward the CCF and for urging co-operation with the Labor-Progressive party, Mr. Coldwell said:

"At the national CCF convention in Montreal recently, the proposal for co-operation with the Labor-Progressive party was turned down. Apparently these members of the Manitoba legislature are inclined to go their own way in opposition to the national policy of the party.

"The Manitoba provincial executive has followed the policy laid down by the national party. They are quite right in not only suspending but expelling any who would follow the Communist party line. I am fully in accord."

More Canadian Units Are Named

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN GERMANY, March 12.—(CP)—Names of four more Canadian regiments which fought in the 1st Canadian Army offensive in the last month were released last night, bringing to 21 the number named. The four:

Fort Garry Horse, Winnipeg tank regiment. Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, machine-gun and heavy mortar battalion. The Royal Regiment of Canada, Toronto. The Royal Hamilton Light Infantry.

The Fort Garry Horse, supported Canadian infantry in numerous attacks south of Kleve and was part of the spearhead attack of the 2nd Canadian Corps Feb. 26 which led to the assault on the Hochwald line.

The Algonquin Regiment, a North Bay, Ont., infantry formation (previously identified), broke through enemy trench defences before the Hochwald corridor, later fought in the corridor and in the hard battle around Veen, strongpoint three miles south of Xanten, which fell Saturday.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

I get into some interesting discussions with the boys in the hospitals where I go each week to do card tricks for them. After the card tricks, a few of the boys want to discuss bridge.

One youngster said, "Listen, you are always writing squeeze-plays and end-plays and things like that—why don't you write up a good safety play?"

I said, "I think you have something there." So here is a good safety play.

We will not say anything about the optimistic bidding. The opening lead is won with the ace. The declarer has to ruff two clubs and a spade, so taking the diamond finesse is an unnecessary risk.

A very fine player went down on this hand because he cashed the ace and king of diamonds, then the ace and king of clubs and ruffed a club. He was locked on the board so he cashed the ace and a small heart. East won with the king of hearts and cashed the queen of diamonds.

The correct play, as soon as you win the ace of spades, is to lead a small heart. Now you later will be able to ruff a heart to get out of dummy and thus make the contract.

Notice to Veterans Planning to Apply for Their Re-Establishment Credit

If you are planning to apply for your re-establishment credit, your first step should be to contact the Supervisor of Re-establishment Credits at the nearest office of the Department of Veterans Affairs. You should make no commitments until this has been done.

While this money is yours, and the Department is anxious that you use it, Parliament has laid down certain ways in which it may be spent. It is the responsibility of the Department of Veterans Affairs to ensure that you use the money for these purposes only.

However, cases have arisen where ex-service men and women have entered into agreements involving the use of their re-establishment credits for purposes other than those covered by the Act. As a result, it has not been possible to reimburse these veterans for the money which they have spent.

MAKE NO COMMITMENTS WITHOUT FULL INFORMATION

To avoid a situation such as that mentioned above, sign no agreements and pay out no money without consulting the Department of Veterans Affairs. This applies even though you are sure the way in which you plan to use your re-establishment credit is one covered by the Act. You can get complete information either through a personal interview with the Supervisor of Re-establishment Credits at the nearest office of the Department of Veterans Affairs, or by writing to him.

THIS WILL HELP YOU IN YOUR PLANNING

There will be no serious delay through applying to the Department for information. You will get the additional advantage of being told how much, if any, of your own money you will have to put up and how much can be supplied from your re-establishment credit. You will be advised also of the correct procedure to be followed in making your intended purchases, and you can ask to be given the assistance of the local Advisory Committee on Re-establishment Credits

CONSIDER YOUR PLANS CAREFULLY

It is important that your re-establishment plans be clear cut before making application, as payment of the credit debars you from training and educational grants and from benefits under the Veterans' Land Act. Ample time is given to reach a decision as the credit may be applied for at any time within ten years of discharge.

MARKET MOVEMENTS

MARCH 12, 1945.

Stocks—
At New York: Mostly down.
At Montreal: Papers gain.
At Toronto: Golds, oils up.

Wheat—
At Winnipeg: Trading suspended.
At Chicago: ½ to 2 higher, closing at 1.70⅝-1.71 (May).

Grain Markets Are Irregular

CHICAGO, March 12—(AP)—Grain markets, irregular at the start, rallied sharply today when general commission house buying found offerings extremely light. Wheat, in the lead throughout the session, at times was as much as 1½ cents higher.

A firmer securities market and short covering accounted for some of the gains. A 21-cent increase in the export price for Canadian wheat, announced during the week-end, encouraged outside buying.

At the finish wheat was ½-2 cents higher, May $1.1-$1.70½. Corn was unchanged to up ¼, May $1.14⅝. Oats were ⅛-½ higher, May 64¼. Rye was ⅛-1 higher, May $1.14⅝-½. Barley was up ½, May $1.11½.

Montreal & Toronto

MONTREAL, March 12—(CP)—Posting increases in papers on the stock market today were Quebec Pulp pfd., after opening softer, Fraser, Powell, Abitibi 6 per cent pfd., MacLaren, B.C. Pulp, Donnacona, Howard Smith common and pfd. and Brown. Consolidated Paper failed to hold a boost and Price and Abitibi common were lower.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, March 12—(Reuters)—A prominent feature of stock markets today was the strength of Argentine railway issues. Gains ranging up to £1 were registered among the debenture and preference issues inspired by dividend prospects.

French railway bonds improved around £1 under renewed demand.

Industrials on the whole were rather idle apart from god inquiry for breweries encouraged by the recent dividend announcements, coupled with post-war prospects.

In other directions prices generally were maintained at previous levels.

Switzerland Buys Winnipeg Wheat

WINNIPEG, March 12—(CP)—Switzerland returned to the export wheat market today on the Winnipeg grain exchange and traders estimated business at 250,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern.

Rye futures trading was strong in sympathy with advances at Chicago. Fair pit buying was attributed to locals and American houses. Offerings were light and dealings moderately active.

At the close values were 2 to 1⅛c higher with May at 1.31¾.

WILLIAM PETTIGREW

RALPH YOUNG

OFFICERS OF RELIGIOUS COUNCIL.—Two Edmonton men were made officers of the Alberta Boys' Work Board which met Friday and Saturday in Calgary in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Religious Education Council of Alberta. William Pettigrew was elected chairman of the board and Ralph Young was elected chairman of the camp committee.

Churchill Praises Gen. Eisenhower For Successes

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill congratulated Gen. Eisenhower Saturday on "the great victory won by the Allied armies under your command by which the defeat or destruction of all the Germans west of the Rhine will be achieved."

He praised the "remarkable speed and flexibility of the American armies," and expressed pleasure that British and Canadian armies "should have played a part in your far-reaching and triumphant combinations."

Urge Truckers Speed Operations

The recent spell of fine weather should remind all truck operators that the time is near when in order to protect the highways of the province, it will be necessary to issue an order banning the operation of trucks and buses for such period as may be deemed necessary.

In the meantime, truck operators and farmers who have grain or stock to be delivered, should endeacour to co-operate with the Highway Traffic Board and to reduce loads as much as possible and at the same time to endeavour to complete the most necessary operations before the ban goes into ffect.

Retail to consumers: A large, 44; A medium, 42; A pullet, 36; grade B, 38; grade C, 27.

This egg market has undergone no appreciable change over last few weeks. Receipts reported by registered grading stations show decrease of 4 per cent. This decrease can be attributed to two factors, the condition of country roads and the sharp increase in hatchery operations, rather than to any general decrease in production. The market is strong with all quotations and prices unchanged. The quality of arrivals continues exceptionally good with general run of receipts averaging 90 per cent. top grades. Seven carlots grade A large and A medium moved to seaboard in the shell for export to Britain. Two carlots same grades processed moved into storage under the fall contract program. An additional three car lots Grade B and A pullets moved through the Special Products Board for drying. Movement to northern projects confined to light LCL shipments to army camps.

POULTRY PRICES

Dealers offer Country Shippers: A large 29; A medium, 27; A pullet, 21; grade B, 24; grade C, 15-16.

Wholesale to Retail Quoted at: A large 37; A medium, 35; A pullet, 29; grade B, 31; grade C, 22.

Retail to Consumer Quoted at: A large, 44; A medium, 42; A pullet, 36; grade B, 38; grade C, 27.

The feature attraction on the poultry market is the encouragement offered by the poultry dealers towards a specialized spring and summer broiler program. Advertising is carried by all principal newspapers, by specially prepared leaflets distributed through all registered egg grading stations and over the air. Prevailing prices are guaranteed by dealers from March 1st to August 1st, 1945, and are as follows, based on birds weighing 2½ to 3½ pounds live weight, rail graded. Grade A milkfed, 30c; grade B milkfed, 28c; grade B, 26c; grade C, 22c; less 6c per head for processing.

The only activity on the dressed poultry market was the shipment of one carlot mixed chicken and fowl to the United States. Live receipts confined to light arrivals of fowl. All quotations remain unchanged.

14 City Delegates At Calgary Meet

Fourteen Edmonton delegates attended the annual meeting of the Religious Education Council of Alberta which was held in Calgary last Friday and Saturday.

Meeting in conjunction with the council, the Alberta Boys' Work Board met and elected as chairman William Pettigrew, Edmonton, active young people's worker. Ralph Young, Edmonton, young men's secretary of the YMCA, was made chairman of the camp committee.

Delegates passed a completely revised constitution brought in by a survey committee.

French Woman Smuggled Plan Of Flying Bomb

PARIS, March 12—(Reuters)—Under the very noses of the Germans while they were still in France, a small French woman who holds a law degree, smuggled to Britain the first plan of the V-1 flying bomb, thus putting at the disposition of Allied scientists vital information about the latest German invention, it was revealed here yesterday.

For security reasons her name cannot be disclosed.

Today she sits in a room in a famous Paris legal building—the same where she worked the successful coup to obtain the V-1 plans and smuggle them to Britain. Here also she schemed and plotted to hide and put on their way back to England at least 20 Allied airmen who bailed out over France and were brought to her for safety.

20 Panes Glass Reported Broken

Twenty panes of glass reportedly were smashed over the week-end, according to city police. Two were broken in the Arctic Service Station, 82 avenue at 97 street, two patrolmen discovered about 1:30 a.m. Sunday. The premises were not entered.

About 20 minutes later the same officers found that two windows had been smashed in the laboratory building of Gainers' Limited.

Mrs. M. Smith, 9859 82 avenue, reported Saturday that she heard a crash about 10:20 p.m. and, looking out, observed two youths racing along the lane after 16 panes of glass in the Church of the Nazarene had been broken.

Five New Members In Railway Lodge

Five applicants were accepted for membership in the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Hanolers, Express and Station Employees, United Lodge No. 2050, at the monthly meeting held recently at the IOOF hall. Past President Fred Mather presided in the absence of J. McAra, president.

Plans were made for a social evening in April, and reports of favorable progress in other lodges in the East were read by D. McLean. A grievance committee was elected comprising Mr. McLean, chairman, and Miss E. Burton, J. Mancer, H. Turner and J. Desjardine. D. Sorlie was elected to replace R. Bacon as sergeant-at-arms. Miss T. Lafleur, assisted by other members served refreshments to bring the evening to a close.

2,100 American Planes in Raids To Aid Russians

LONDON, March 12—(AP)—More than 2,100 United States planes slashed a wide path across northern Germany today with the main force of 650 bombers blasting military and naval installations on the Baltic coast in direct support of the Russian armies.

The German radio said the Pomeranian capital of Stettin and the Nazi U-boat and naval base at Swinemuende, 35 miles northeast of Stettin, were the targets.

An RAF spokesman credited Allied bombers based in Britain with laying waste more than 450 square miles of the Ruhr.

REDS AT SUBURBS

The Russians last were reported attacking in the suburbs of Stettin across the Oder river from the important port.

The German alarm system indicated other widespread attacks were taking place as the Allied aerial offensive carried through its 28th day. Before noon sirens were sounding in every section of northern Germany from the Netherlands to Stettin and from Vienna to Munich in southern Germany as bombers thundered in from Italy.

Rome dispatches said the Brenner rail line into Italy had been closed to traffic for 44 straight days.

The once great armaments centre of Essen only 15 miles ahead of the Allied armies massing along the Rhine, was described as a dead city following yesterday's raid in which more than 1,000 RAF heavy bombers dumped some 5,000 tons of explosives on the city.

MOSQUITO RAIDS

RAF Mosquitos kept the offensive rolling through the night by hitting Berlin with two-ton blockbusters for the 20th night in a row. They also attacked various other communications targets in western Germany.

More than 1,200 American heavy bombers attacked Germany Sunday, switching from railyards to submarine yards at Hamburg, Bremen and Kiel.

Several small oil refineries at Hamburg, Harburg and Bremen also were attacked.

Library Group Holds Meeting

The Edmonton branch of the Canadian Library Association held its first meeting at the Public Library last week, when Walker Blake and James McCrae spoke on Library Publicity, and Scott Brewster explained the Principles of Display Publicity.

Among those attending were members of the Library staffs of the Alberta government, University of Alberta, and the Public Library.

Boy Is Hurt

Four-year-old John Sadowick, of Redwater, was in the Misericordia hospital late Sunday suffering from injuries received after being involved in an accident near his home that afternoon. Driver of the car, according to RCMP headquarters in Edmonton, was William Dun, Redwater district farmer. Police are investigating.

Raid Casualties Reported by Swiss

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—The Swiss government announced last night that four of its nationals were killed, many injured and extensive damage was caused when planes of undetermined nationality bombed Switzerland. A broadcast Swiss communique said large fires were started in Basel. Fifty freight cars were destroyed and the freight station damaged at Wolf. Extensive damage to houses and an agricultural school was caused at Zuerlich.

Three Scottish War Brides of Edmonton Airmen Arrive Here

Three Scottish war brides of Edmonton airmen were about the most excited members of a group of repatriated RCAF air and ground crew personnel arriving in Edmonton Monday. All three are from Edinburgh.

The three "bra lassies frae Auld Scotia" are the proud war "souvenirs" of Flt. Sgt. C. G. Dunham, 11809 102 avenue; LAC D. Coffin, 11508 93 street, and Cpl. E. Whetstone, 11029 88 avenue.

"No, it wasn't planned. It just happened that we all three have Scottish brides," LAC Coffin said.

The Scottish war brides are delighted with what they have seen of Canada so far.

SERVED LONG TIME

A majority of those returning Monday were ground crew members and all averaged close to four years' service overseas.

Food and street lights in Canada have been the chief attractions of the homecoming to date, they said.

Flt. Sgt. Dunham was serving on the European continent with a night fighter Mosquito squadron until last month.

"The Germans have shown little in the air since their surprise attack on Allied airports the first week in January. They seem to be pretty thoroughly beaten in the air," Dunham said.

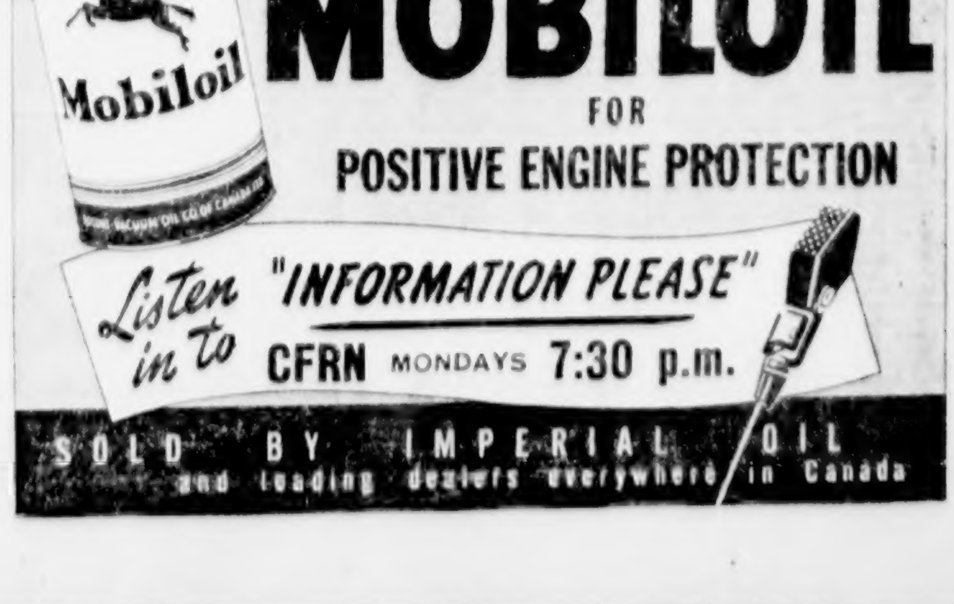

Cpl. Whetstone, with the Wolfe Spitfire squadron and a bomber squadron reported conditions similar to Dunham.

STILL HAVE KICK

LAC Coffin said the Germans still seem to have a kick in them.

Sgt. G. N. Rust, also with a night fighter squadron, has been overseas four years. He is also of the opinion it may take some time yet to beat the Nazis.

Others due back Monday were: Cpl. J. E. Hyde, LAC W. Johnson, 11831 141 street, FO H. A. Heacock, 9741 86 avenue and FO. W. D. Lane.

NOTICE OF PREPARATION OF ASSESSMENT ROLL

Village of Seba Beach Assessment Roll, 1945

Notice is hereby given that the assessment roll of the Village of Seba Beach for the year 1945 has been prepared and is now open for inspection at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer from ten o'clock in the forenoon to four o'clock in the afternoon on every day which is not a public holiday, except Sunday, and on that day from ten o'clock in the forenoon until two o'clock in the afternoon, and that any person who desires to object to the entry of his name or that of any other person upon the said roll or to the assessment of any property or to the assessed value placed upon any property, must within thirty days after the date of this notice lodge a complaint in writing with the Secretary-Treasurer.

Dated at Edmonton this 10th day of March, 1945.

E. G. DEANE,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Before the Magistrate

Bruce Saunders and Bertram Martell, charged with theft of auto and shopbreaking before Magistrate L. R. Jackson, Monday morning, had their cases remanded to March 19. Pleas of not guilty were entered regarding the first count, while no pleas were entered concerning the latter charge. A 17-year-old youth, also charged with the theft of the auto, was transferred to the juvenile court.

The three were returned from Calgary over the week-end, where the allegedly stolen auto owned by George Prudham of Edmonton was discovered.

Mrs. Irene Milot, charged with theft, was assessed $10 or 15 days. On a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency she was placed on one year's suspended sentence.

Asked whether he was guilty or not, of intoxication, Robert W. Smith replied, "Partially." He was fined $20 or 30 days.

* * *

Ray Simmons, charged with assaulting James Wylie of Edmonton and causing him grievous bodily harm, had his case adjourned until Thursday. Cash bail was set at $500.

Red Cross Clinic In North District

The Red Cross mobile blood donor clinic from Edmonton this week was forging its way from Fort St. John to Grande Prairie in an effort to obtain as many blood donations as possible from residents of the north districts.

Stopping at Fort St. John for three days last week, the clinic received a total of 388 donations. For most of the residents it was their first plasmatic award to the men overseas, but a number of donors from the RCAF and American military bases had registered previously. Held at the Providence hospital with the assistance of the staff and sisters of that institution, the clinic was under direction of local Red Cross president T. Flatt, secretary D. Cran, and the Rev. H. Mortimer.

Miss Helen Hugill, R.N., in charge of the mobile clinic, reported to city headquarters Monday that excellent response has been met with in spite of poor roads and communications systems. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week will see the clinic at Grande Prairie and on the same three days of the following week, the clinic will stop at Peace River, after which it will return to Edmonton.

Webster Passes The Danger Point

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 12—(AP)—Don Webster, Hershey Bear hockey player who was injured Sunday during an American League game with Buffalo, has passed the danger point and is resting comfortably, Deaconess hospital attaches reported Saturday.

Webster suffered a punctured bladder when a splintered hockey stick pierced the abdominal cavity.

Students' Union Candidates Speak

Excitement reigned high in Convocation Hall Saturday morning as the candidates for the student union elections at the University of Alberta made their campaign speeches. The speakers were introduced by Alf. Harper, retiring president of the union and their speaking time was limited to three minutes each.

Rud Eggenberger, candidate for president, had as his spokesman, Frank Quigley and Jack Jurgens spoke for Ross Helmer, the engineers' candidate. Most of the candidates relied on straight forward campaign speeches, setting forth their policies as contrasted to past years when jokes and campaign stunts were the rule.

Sylvia Calloway, candidate for president of women's athletics came dressed for the position, wearing hockey socks, shorts, basketball sweater, rugby helmet and carrying skates, badminton birds and an archery bow. As proof of her executive ability she also carried a book.

The elections will take place on Wednesday. Betty King and Jack Usborne are the returning officers.

Used Car Dealer Faces 70 Charges

Tally of alleged infractions of War Time Prices and Trade Board regulations by Edward C. "Dutch" Lyons, Edmonton second hand automobile dealer, mounted to 70 when he appeared in police court Monday before Magistrate H. J. Hawe, K.C., on 17 additional counts, 10 of selling over ceiling prices, and seven of rendering false statements in connection with sales, were added to the 43 previously laid against him.

On application by A. W. Miller, K.C., who is acting for the accused with Nellies V. Buchanan, K.C., a further adjournment until Monday, March 26, was granted by Magistrate Hawe. Gerald O'Connor, K.C., and Neil V. Gorman are acting as special prosecutors appointed by the Dominion department of justice.

Mr. Lyons reserved his plea to the additional counts laid against him on Monday. He is now facing 42 charges of selling over ceiling prices; one of buying over the ceiling, and 27 counts of making false returns. The amount allegedly overcharged in connection with the 42 sales over ceiling prices is approximately $10,700.

Three Are Injured In Alleged Brawl

A woman was injured, a man allegedly was assaulted, and a third person, Harlan Soloman, Edmonton, was placed under arrest over the week-end on two counts, assault causing bodily harm, and common assault, according to city police. Soloman, it was said, did not receive injury himself, and before being placed in the police cells was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital where six stitches were used to close a three-inch gash in his head.

The injured woman was said by police to be Mrs. Bernice Miller, 10632 108A avenue, who received an eye injury, scratches and bruises. William Forbe, of the same address, suffered scratches, while his clothing was torn.

According to police the accused had been taken from the same premises about two hours earlier, at which time he was said to be making a nuisance of himself. About an hour after officers departed, he returned.

Soloman, his head and nose heavily bandaged when he appeared before Magistrate L. R. Jackson in city police court Monday morning, pleaded guilty to both charges. He insisted that the two complainants had beaten him first, but the magistrate said he had "asked for it by going back." The penalties were $20 or 30 days on the first count, and $5 or 10 days on the second.

Must Live, Think "Internationally"

Canadians must rid themselves of their many racial and religious prejudices and start living and thinking internationally right here before they start thinking of world service, J. Harley Fowler, Toronto, national world service secretary for the YMCA in Canada, told a Sunday afternoon meeting of HiY members.

Speaking on "Thinking Internationally", Mr. Fowler said, "Never has so much prejudice been felt in Canada as in the past year. Here we have the feeling against the French-Canadians, Protestants against Catholic, Catholic against Protestant and both of them against the Jews."

The speaker stressed the need for each race to get over the idea that it is the "whole show."

He outlined the work of the YMCA which has been resumed in some of the liberated countries and said that three "Y" secretaries in the Far East are western Canadians.

The speaker told HiY members that on their groups there rested more responsibility and more opportunity than on any other age group in the country. "In the post-war world the emphasis will be on youth," he said.

Mr. Fowler was in Edmonton at the week-end to confer with the YMCA board of directors and world service officials.

Sunday night he spoke at First Baptist church and Monday he addressed other youth groups at the YMCA.

Money Issued By Government Is Said Need

If the Dominion government can give chartered banks the right to issue money, why can't the government issue this money itself?

This question was posed Monday night by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, when he spoke at the Social Credit Hall, 9974 Jasper avenue, addressing a regular meeting of Edmonton Social Credit Constituency Association.

Stating that some persons assert government issue of money would lead to inflation, Mr. Tanner asked, "Would more money be circulated if it was issued by the government rather than by the banks?"

INFLATION UNWANTED

Inflation must be prevented, the minister told his hearers. "I don't want inflation," he said. "But this country has suffered more from deflation than it has from inflation."

More money is in circulation in Canada today than ever before, Mr. Tanner said. "This is money that never existed before. Where did it come from?"

"Nobody in Canada can issue money without authority," he continued. "The government, by the Bank Act, gives the right to issue money, provided sufficient security is behind it."

The speaker explained that when new money was needed, the government went to a bank for it. Its issue was backed by a bond, which is the claim on the national resources of Canada through the people's ability to produce and to pay taxes.

PAYS TWO FOR ONE

The government gives the authority to issue money, gives its backing to bonds behind the money, but in going back to pay, it will have to pay $2 for every $1 borrowed, "to a man who didn't have it in the first place."

"Why can't the government issue money as it is needed?" Mr. Tanner asked. He said Canada's national debt was $4,700,000,00 at the beginning of the war, and by the end of 1944 it had climbed to four times that amount. The country had never paid a debt without borrowing, at times had even borrowed to pay interest on the debt.

Before the war, every country proved that it couldn't pay out enough in wages for people to buy goods produced, the minister said early in his address. He declared this lag must be cared for in future years.

He told of conditions in the United States before the war, where primary producers were paid not to produce hogs, oranges and cotton. These producers had been paid to dump oranges into the sea and plow cotton under. Yet at the same time there were persons in the country who did not have the money to buy these goods.

"Why couldn't the government, over the whole country, have given these people the money to buy these goods, rather than give the money to the producing group to destroy them?" the speaker asked.

COULD PAY PENSIONS

Uses of debt-free money mentioned by Mr. Tanner included payment of old-age pensions and school grants. The payment of pensions would mean the individual taxpayer would be better off by the amount of money he is now paying toward this levy.

Education grants would provide tuition for every boy and girl in the country who showed desire for advancement and progress, until he or she had reached the age to go out into the world. In this way, the national dividend would make good citizens.

John B. Gillies, vice-president of the constituency association, was in the chair at the meeting, in the absence of David Duncan, president.

Man Is Injured

Joseph Procter Arthur, Dominion City, Man., farmer, a visitor to the city, residing at 11345 101 street, was admitted to the Royal Alexandra hospital Monday afternoon suffering from a throat injury. He was taken to that institution by Hays ambulance.

COMMODORE E. R. BROCK, CBE

Navy's Future Up to People States Officer

Canada's naval men in 35 years have established a tradition to rival that of the Royal Navy which was formed more than 1,000 years ago, and the future of the Canadian navy rests with the people, Commodore E. R. Brock, CBE, commanding officer of naval divisions in Canada, said Monday. He was addressing a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in the Macdonald hotel, speaking on "Canada's Little Ships and Fighting Men."

"It takes seven years to train an efficient naval officer," he said, "and five years to train an efficient naval rating. To wait until a war starts is too late."

Commodore Brock pointed out that of the three services, the navy is in action the moment war is declared. He said that in 1939 Canada had less than 4,000 men in her permanent and reserve forces, compared with nearly 94,000 today; seven ships compared with nearly 700.

NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENTS

"Up until now Canada's navy has been one of little ships," the speaker said, "but the job our frigates, destroyers, minesweepers and motor torpedo boats have done in convoying troops and supplies through the North Atlantic to Britain and to Russia, is notable."

He said that more than one per cent of naval personnel have been awarded honors for gallantry and cited many instances where men of Canada's navy displayed heroism and devotion to duty.

"There is the story of a corvette on convoy duty, armed with six rifles and four revolvers. At dusk the crew sighted an unknown ship on the horizon. The little corvette of about 900 tons challenged the ship repeatedly and received no reply. Finally the captain of the corvette ordered this signal sent: 'If you don't reply we'll open fire,' and the reply came back, 'Carry on Canada with your gallant little ship!' It was signed Rodney—about 39,000 tons."

The speaker told of a youthful rating who was aboard a corvette which was torpedoed. His abandon ship station was to hand out the life preservers to members of the crew. "As each man approached him he gave him a preserver and although he was unable to swim himself he unhesitatingly gave the last one to the last member of the crew. He went down with the ship."

NOT UNCOMMON

"Such instances of bravery of the men are innumerable," Commodore Brock said, "and it is that spirit of devotion which has made the navy."

Shouldn't Canada as a young nation uphold her self-respect by maintaining her own ships, the speaker asked, and not return to the position she was in before the war where she had to rely on the U.S. Navy or the Royal Navy.

Hospital Work Is Authorized By City Council

Construction of a new power plant, a 50-bed chronic treatment hospital, and remodelling of the front entrance at the Royal Alexandra hospital to provide a blood bank, overnight ward, and enlarged waiting room facilities was approved by city council Monday night.

The three projects will cost approximately $250,000; the power plant being estimated at $100,000, the hospital additions at a similar figure, and the alterations to the hospital entrance $30,000.

Ald. James H. Ogilvie asked if further expenditures were advisable on the hospital because of its nearness to the city airport. He requested that the commissioners inquire from members of the medical profession with respect to this. He said that it might be better that any further major expenditures contemplated should be made on the erection of a municipal hospital on another site.

PROPOSED BY BOARD

City Commissioner John Hodgson said that the proposed buildings and alterations had been recommended by the hospital board, and Aldermen Sidney Parsons and Fred J. Mitchell, members of the hospital board, said that construction of the power plant and the alterations to the hospital entrance were projects of pressing importance. The erection of the chronic patients' ward, they added, would give needed bed space in the main hospital building.

Ald. Parsons said such a hospital could be best served at present from the Royal Alexandra hospital. Nursing services were required, and heating could be brought to the hospital from the power plant now operated in connection with the Royal Alexandra.

Ald. Mitchell said that consideration had been given by the board to the suggestion made by Ald. Ogilvie, but it had been decided to proceed with the three projects.

Commissioner Hodgson reported that funds covering the three projects were in hand, and that the city architect was preparing plans in connection with the three undertakings.

Understanding Is Theme of Course

Speaking on "Understanding the Teen-Ager" in an adult education course at Garneau school on Monday night, Miss Maimie Simpson, instructor in dramatics, said that the aim of the course was understanding young people going through a period where childhood is being left behind and young manhood and young womanhood is being sought.

Registrations at the course increased by 40 over those enrolling at the start of the series the previous week.

This is not a job for the impatient. Rather it is a task for those who are willing to see things from the young person's point of view; for those who are tolerant, Miss Simpson said.

The teen-ager has many shortcomings, but he has great possibilities. Parents, and teachers, must learn, as leaders of youth, how to deal intelligently with these; how to assist the boy or girl to make the proper adjustments; how to develop the right sort of personality for happy and successful living; how to make him or her a responsible member of society. He must be taught to face the world without "turning back."

The emotional life of the adolescent is unstable. Why? The period is one of much criticism, especially of the older generation. Why? New interests, new problems, new ideals show themselves. What's to be done about them? Many personal problems arise. The future is viewed in a new light, she said.

"Understanding the Teen-Ager" then, will be an attempt to consider all these varied problems of our youth of today, not forgetting that in every generation the adolescent has been impatient of restraint imposed by his elders; he has been eager to grow up so that he might do things, by and for, himself."

South Side Canadian Legion Branch Instals 1945 Officers

With the gleaming new spacious quarters jammed to the doors by members and their wives and special guests, South Side Branch No. 150 of the Canadian Legion, BESL, became an official unit of the great Empire service organization Monday night following the colorful ceremony of installation of officers.

Walter R. McLaren, past president of the senior Edmonton Branch No. 24 was installing officer while First Vice-President J. C. Macdonald brought best wishes for success from the North Side branch on behalf of President H. E. Tanner, now absent in the east.

A splendid concert and luncheon followed the installation ceremonies.

President A. H. Templeton of Branch 150, who served with the 28th Bn. CEF, in the First Great War said it is a matter of pride to himself and other officer and members of the South Side Branch that five months ago the new branch was only a dream.

STEADILY GROWING

"Now we have a membership of 125 and are steadily growing. I would not like this occasion to pass without making public an acknowledgement of the debt we owe to the late Paddy Griffin. It is indeed a matter for great regret that Paddy did not live to see the fulfilment of his hopes about a South Side branch. It was something that was very near and dear to his heart," Mr. Templeton said.

S. Carl Heckbert, president of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, BESL, wired regrets at being unable to attend the opening ceremonies while telegrams of best wishes were read from Mr. Tanner, Second Vice-President Percy W. Gwyne, Secretary-Manager W. J. Williams, MLA, and Lt.-Col E. Brown, MM, ED, all Branch No. 24 officers, at present in Ottawa.

Mr. Templeton said that the infant branch owes a great deal to the old branch for assistance in every way.

PLAYED THE PIPES

To the skirl of pipes played by Pipe Major Henry Laing, the officers of the branch were escorted to the platform where each pledged to serve with loyalty and impartiality for the term of office to which he was elected.

COMPLETE SLATE

The complete board of officers for the present year are:

President, A. H. Templeton; first vice-president, Thomas O'Dwyer; second vice-president, J. A. Davies; executive, Percy Maines, G. W. Goddard, J. Downie, Owen Hand, D. Roberts and C. A. Beckwith; secretary-treasurer, Walter S. Rose; sergeant-at-arms, William "Scotty" Lang.

W. R. McLAREN

In addition to officers from Branch No. 24, there were representatives present from the Edmonton Branch of the Canadian Corps Association; the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada; Imperial Comrades Association; South Side Bn. of the Veterans Volunteer Reserve and the Pouce Coupe Branch of the Legion.

Dean A. M. Trendell, padre of the Edmonton Legion was also a guest of honor.

The headquarters of Branch No. 150, located at the intersection of 82 avenue and 104 street are buildings that served as army hutments at Dawson Creek, which are being purchased outright by the branch.

VOLUNTARY LABOR

Much of the work of erection and interior finishing was performed voluntarily by members.

Dennis Clayton was at the piano for the artists and highly pleasing numbers were given by Frank Williams, baritone soles; Jimmy Grant, comic songs in character and tap dancing; S. Campbell, Scotch sings; Bill Ness, character songs; Jack White, solos; Bill Lynch, tenor solos; Henry Laing, pipe solos; Darrell Robertson, banjo and saxophone numbers.

Percy Maines was chairman of the concert, while Bill Ness led in community singing of many old favorites.

Will Make Survey Proposed Service

A questionnaire will be sent out by the Edmonton street railway system Wednesday for distribution amongst employees at the CNR Calder shops and at the NAR Dunvegan yards.

The questionnaire will seek information on which will be based a decision whether or no a bus service will be started to operate to the Calder shops and Dunvegan yards during the hours employees there go to and return from work.

Last week a delegation from the CNR and NAR workers appeared before the transportation committee of city council requesting a bus service from the 95 street and 118 avenue intersection along 97 street to 127 avenue and then west to Calder. A request for continuation of this service to the Dunvegan yards also was filed.

At the meeting it was suggested by committee members that a questionnaire be sent to key men in the CNR and NAR shops seeking information on the probable total of traffic that would be available if a bus line was put into operation.

Ash Wednesday Beginning of Lent

Lent, the 40-day period immediately preceding Easter will commence on Wednesday—Ash Wednesday—as the first day of the period is called. Sundays are not included in the period.

The present duration of Lent dates from the 4th century, although prior to that the period varied considerably.

Lent customarily is associated with a period of fasting and self-denial originating from the 40-day fast of Christ in the wilderness.

City churches are planning special prayer and other services during Lent, culminating in widespread observances at Easter.

Plan Exploratory Activity in North

Further exploration work will be carried out this spring on the Lockhart River, NWT, in connection with the proposed hydro-electric development by the Calgary Power Co., according to C. A. Gaherty, Montreal, general manager of the company, who arrived here Tuesday on a routine business trip. He is accompanied by H. B. Sherman, Calgary, general manager of the company.

Mr. Gaherty, who said that the survey made last year on the river was inconclusive, and further explorations would be carried out. He said the survey party would leave for the north next week. It will be in charge of B. A. Monkman, Edmonton civil engineer.

Commenting on extensions of services, Mr. Gaherty said that shortage of material, especially poles and transformers, had held up the giving of services for which applications are now on hand.

During his visit to Edmonton the Calgary Power Co. officials will confer with the city commissioners on certain aspects of the interchange power supply agreement between the company and the City of Edmonton.

Plan Program For Observance City's Founding

City council Monday night instructed the city commissioners to co-operate with interested citizens and representatives of local organizations in the establishment of a voluntary committee to arrange and submit to council a program for the suitable observance of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the first trading posts on the banks of the North Saskatchewan River not far from the present location of the City of Edmonton.

In their report to the city council the commissioners state that this year is one of special significance in the city's history which should not go unnoticed. They suggested that appropriate observances be held during the course of the year.

It was intimated that under present war conditions, when so much sorrow, strain and suffering prevail, that no undue expenditure in connection with such observances is justified.

THANKS ARE ASKED

It was suggested that religious institutions could be asked to give in their services special thanks for the Divine guidance given our pioneers; the council could authorize the mayor to proclaim 1945 Edmonton's sesquicentennial year, and urge all citizens to observe it; school boards could request the teaching staff to explain the special significance to their pupils, and suitable memorandum commemorating the event could be placed upon city correspondence; business firms and others might decide to do likewise and citizens could mention the fact when writing to relatives and friends.

The commissioners reported that some citizens and representatives of local organizations have already expressed such ideas, and have further proposed the establishment of a voluntary committee to arrange and submit to city council a program suitable to the occasion.

Ald. James H. Ogilvie suggested that school boards in the city might co-operate in staging an essay competition on Edmonton's history, with prizes donated for the best essay written by students in each school, and a grand prize for the best essay submitted. The essays, he said, could be limited to grade seven to 12 inclusive. He also suggested that prizes be given to university students submitting the best historical survey of the city's history.

SUGGESTS BOOKLET

Ald. H. D. Ainlay suggested that a booklet outlining the city's history should be printed for distribution amongst school children.

Council also passed a resolution asking the Dominion government to make a re-survey of the necessity of having daylight saving time and requested that if such survey warranted, that daylight saving time be abolished.

Ald. James H. Ogilvie gave notice of motion that he would move endorsation of the brief presented to the Dominion government by the Jasper Park Development Committee, seeking improvements in Jasper Park designed to attract tourist traffic to the mountain resort. The brief was submitted recently to the federal government.

He also asked for a statement from the commissioners on the number of temporary employees in each civic department.

Legion Will Hear Housing Reports

First hand report on conferences with Dominion housing authorities on Edmonton's serious housing situation will be given by delegates from the branch at the regular monthly meeting of Edmonton Branch No. 24 of the Canadian Legion BESL to be held in the Memorial Hall on Feb. 18. The meeting starts at 2:30 p.m.

There will be an at home in the main hall on Wednesday, Feb. 21, starting at 8 p.m. when members and their wives will be entertained by the Kiwanis Glee Club.

The monthly meeting of the Legion Auxiliary will be in the lounge on Feb. 20 at 7:30 p.m., at which time the new officers and executive will be installed.

BEFORE THE MAGISTRATE

Rudy Oleinek, pleading guilty to having possession of stolen property, when he apeared before Magistrate L. R. Jackson Tuesday morning, was fined $50 or two months. The charge arose after entry of an Edmonton drug store last March, when a number of pen and pencil sets were stolen. The accused was found in possession of them. All goods were ordered restored to the owner.

Donald Smith, charged with breach of national registration regulations and intoxication, was fined $50 or two months on the first count, and $20 or 30 days on the second. Terms were ordered to run consecutively.

Decomposed Body Of Soldier Found

CHILLIWACK, B.C., Feb. 13.—(CP)—The badly decomposed body of Pte. W. G. W. Johnston of Fork River, Man., has been found in a remote spot on a farm here, military authorities announced last night. Johnston had been missing for a year from a reconnaissance squadron stationed at this Fraser Valley centre, 59 miles east of Vancouver. The body was found last Saturday by Gerald Walsynuk, an employee on the farm.
